RESIGNATION OF GOVERNOR

May 24, 2017

The Honorable Paul D. Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Des Moines Iowa

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I love Iowa. For more than 22 years, I have been honored and privileged to serve the people of Iowa as their governor. My family and I will always be grateful to Iowans for trusting me to lead and putting their faith in me to serve.

It is tremendous amount of gratitude that I resign as Governor of the State of Iowa, effective immediately, in order to serve our country as U.S. Ambassador to the People's Republic of China. Iowa's future is bright under the leadership of Kim Reynolds.

Sincerely,

Terry E. Branstad
Governor

On May 24, 2017 at 10:06 a.m., Kim Reynolds took the oath of office in the Capitol Rotunda to become Iowa's forty-third governor. Iowa Supreme Court Justice Mark Cady administered the oath.

REMARKS BY GOVERNOR REYNOLDS

Date: May 24, 2017

Mr. Ambassador and Mrs. Branstad, Mr. Chief Justice, justices and judges, Majority Leader Dix, Speaker Upmeyer, legislative leaders, legislators, elected officials, family, friends and fellow Iowans. I'm incredibly honored to stand before you today as your governor.

Ambassador Branstad and Mrs. Branstad, thank you for your unselfish and historic service to this great state. There are really no words to describe the honor I've had serving with you these past six years.

But, Mr. Ambassador – if you will indulge me for a moment – I'd like to try. First, thanks for having the confidence in me to serve as your Lt. Governor. Every step of the way you've inspired me, challenged me, believed in me – sometimes more than I believed in myself.

You're more than a mentor. You're a friend and someone I look to for advice. Your competitive nature is contagious: 99 counties, Governor's Steer Show, Iowa leadership in the country and around the world.

I've watched you time and time again do the right thing regardless of politics or unbelievable pressure. If I can achieve but a fraction of the success you've achieved over the past 22 years, I will consider it the greatest accomplishment of my professional life. We worked hard, had fun, and we made a difference.

While I have some pretty tough shoes to fill, I'm excited to step into my heels on behalf of the people of Iowa and work hard every single day.

While today marks the closing of an important era for Iowa, it also is the beginning of an incredible opportunity for both of you. We're so proud to see you take our Iowa values to the world stage. I cannot think of a better couple more uniquely qualified to take on this new adventure. Please rise, so we can share our gratitude.

To my husband, Kevin, and my three daughters and their families – thank you for your unending encouragement, support and love.

To my Mom and Dad – you have always been there for me. Pushing me forward or lifting me up when I needed it most. From school events to my days of playing six-on-six basketball right to today, I can't even remember a single time when you weren't there.

To my eight and soon to be nine grandchildren – it's going to be a busy couple of years. But I want you to know that there is nothing more important to me than all of you and my family.

You know, I love this state and what it represents. I'm a rural Iowa girl who grew up in a small community, was able to run for county office, to serve as a state senator and your lieutenant governor. And now, to serve as the governor of our state.

It's reflective of what can happen when you have a passion, you want to make a difference and you're not afraid to go out there and work for it. I'm a fifth-generation Iowan, born and raised in St. Charles. It's a small town, but it had a big impact on my life.

Growing up in St. Charles, I learned the importance of community and love of country, of hard work and discipline, of fiscal responsibility and penny pinching. But most importantly, I learned to place my faith in God.

There weren't a lot of jobs for teenagers in St. Charles, so every weekend I would head to Des Moines where I worked as a waitress at Younkers. Waitressing is hard work, but if you knew how to turn tables, you could make good money serving chicken dinners to Iowans after church.

After Kevin and I were married, I worked as a check-out clerk at Hy-Vee. If you ever want to see real penny pinching in action, spend a day selling groceries to Iowans.

In this state, we grew up learning the value of a dollar and not to waste it – a lesson I intend to apply every day as your governor.

I didn't set out to become a politician or elected official. But when the Clarke County treasurer decided to retire in 1994, I saw an opportunity to take my ideas and turn them into action. That meant breaking down barriers – sometimes literally.

In the county treasurer's office, there was a wall that split the office in half. It made it difficult to work and to properly serve our residents. It got in the way of what I wanted to accomplish. So within weeks of taking office, I decided that it needed to come down.

I floated the idea to the Board of Supervisors. They didn't care if the wall came down. They just couldn't pay for it. So, like many Iowans, I had to think creatively.

And in this case, that involved my husband, Kevin, some friends, a sledgehammer and a wheelbarrow.

Over the weekend, we tore the wall down, piece by piece. We were covered in dust from head to toe, but the office was open for business.

When my team showed up on Monday, they couldn't believe the change. With the wall gone, we could collaborate and exchange ideas like never before. And that meant we could better serve the people of Clarke County and take on additional services like issuing drivers licenses from the treasurer's office.

After 14 years in the treasurer's office, I was honored to be elected to the state Senate. When I arrived in the Legislature, I was a freshman member of the minority party. I knew if I wanted to get anything done, I had to reach across the aisle.

But that came easy to me. I learned it from my grandfather. He was an FDR Democrat, so we saw the world very differently. As we sat around the kitchen table, we would debate – even disagree – but always with respect for each other's view.

Where I come from, party label didn't matter nearly as much as getting the job done. I took that same approach with me to the Legislature, which means bringing people together to work for Iowans.

One small example is how I worked across the aisle to enact a law that allowed Iowans to pay their court fines at the treasurer's office. That may sound simple, but it meant that

Iowans could restore their suspended driver's licenses, legally drive, go to work and take care of their families.

That bill passed with bipartisan support. It was a great example of common-sense legislation that Iowans expect.

In the summer of 2010, I received a call that would forever change my life and my family's and led to a whole new level of public service. Never in my wildest dreams did I believe a young girl growing up in St. Charles, Ia., would one day receive a call from Terry Branstad asking her to be his lieutenant governor.

Since that time, we partnered toward a common purpose with a sincere belief that Iowa's best days were ahead. As lieutenant governor, I've traveled the world representing Iowa, working to expand our markets, while bringing investment and jobs to our state.

I've worked on policy that attracts, retains and expands high-tech firms and fosters growth across Iowa. We've seen over $14 billion of capital investment in our state, which represents a choice companies made to invest in Iowa, to grow in Iowa and to join our community of leaders.

We created pathways for Iowans to find careers that will keep them in Iowa. We focused on apprenticeships, skilled worker training and actively supported statewide economic development.

We gave hard-working taxpayers a seat at the table, made it more affordable to own and operate a business, restored liberties, protected life and made it more attractive for doctors to be in Iowa.

We've modernized our education system and while our graduation rate is No. 1 in the nation, we must not let up.

There's something else you should know about me. I'm never satisfied with status quo, and a desire to make a difference is what drives me. Part of being a successful leader is listening and looking for opportunities to bring people together.

While we've had many successes, our job is not done. Know that each day my team and I will ask ourselves what can we do to build a better Iowa. Let's move toward this shared goal together.

Let's make Iowa more competitive, bringing quality jobs to our families, neighbors and communities, building a fair economy where if you work hard, you get rewarded.

My vision for our great state embraces our past, builds a better, brighter future. As governor, I will focus every day on four key priorities: reforming Iowa's tax structure, innovating our energy policy, educating our kids and training for adults.

So let's talk about my first priority: reforming Iowa's tax structure. There is no doubt that we can do better. Our tax rates are some of the highest in the nation, and our code books are filled with a patchwork of exemptions, deductions and credits. That's not how it should be.

Our tax code should be simple. It should be fair. And it should inspire – not inhibit – growth. Because the bottom line is this: a simple, more competitive tax code makes it easier for businesses to grow and expand and creates lasting careers for middle-class Iowans.

While we are blessed to have one of the lowest unemployment rates in the nation, there are still more than 50,000 people looking for work today. These are mothers, fathers, sons and daughters, looking for a better life.

As governor, I will wake up every day thinking about what we can do to help these Iowans gain the meaning and purpose that comes with earning a paycheck.

My second priority is: innovating Iowa's energy policy. We must view our rich, renewable resources in ways never thought possible. For years, our fields have fed the world. Now, they energize it. They produce products that fuel cars and they host wind turbines that power our communities and businesses.

And yet, those fields are filled with untapped potential. Our energy plan will help us continue to lead the way in wind energy and renewable fuels. Working together, we can have the most innovative energy policy in the country.

My third priority is: educating our children. Our children need and deserve an education that meets the demands of the 21st century - focusing on STEM, ensuring our best teachers stay in the classroom and renewing Iowa's emphasis on literacy.

Students and parents want educators and employers working together providing real-world learning experiences. We've already see innovative classrooms and schools spreading across the state – from Iowa Big North to the Pella Career Academy to the elementary coding school in Sioux City.

That's just the beginning. Let's take these pockets of innovation statewide!

My fourth priority is: training Iowans with the skills they need for the jobs of the future. Future Ready Iowa will connect Iowa's efforts in education, workforce training and economic development.

Our goal is that by 2025, 70% of our workforce will have an education or training beyond high school. We're going to build an Iowa where hard-working, middle-class families can live anywhere in our state and have the skills they need to find successful careers. This is about opportunity for more Iowans.

Building a better Iowa also means connecting Iowa to the world by expanding high-speed internet access, regardless of the size and location of the town. A connected community means better jobs, safer communities, better education and better quality of life. And, it's the expectation of our young people.

As your governor, I won't stop working until every Iowan, no matter where they live, has the same opportunity to succeed, have a satisfying career, raise a family and have a great quality of life. It won't be easy, but I know I won't be doing it alone.

I'm grateful for my faith, my family, an incredible team, friends, neighbors and Iowans in all 99 counties standing beside me. I'm especially grateful to the people of Clarke County for giving me a second chance when I needed it most. I'm a better person because of their ongoing encouragement, prayers and support. I'm not perfect. I'm not infallible. But I am an Iowan, through and through.

Lastly, I will leave to the historians to write what they will about the meaning of this day in the story of Iowa.

Becoming Iowa's first woman governor is both humbling and exciting. I will do my best to serve as a role model for others to follow and hope to emulate the finest qualities of those who led before me.

However, it is my responsibility, my challenge, to do my best. To give them the opportunity to write much more than "she was Iowa's first woman governor."

While I am extremely proud of that fact, there needs to be more to it. I am confident that with your help and support, we can build on the good things accomplished over the past six years.

We can pursue a bold vision of innovation, ingenuity, and growth such that our chapter in the history of Iowa will be filled with great accomplishments, with page upon page about how we made Iowa an even better place to live, work, innovate, create and raise a family.

And then – if they must – they can add at the end of the chapter "and, oh by the way, she was also Iowa's first woman governor."

Today, I stand before you as your humble servant and governor.

Thank you, and may God bless you, and God bless this great state of Iowa and our nation.

REMARKS BY MAJORITY LEADER HAGENOW

Thank you Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House. It is my great honor to welcome you back to the Statehouse as we continue the historic work of the 87th General Assembly.

With the first day of each session comes excitement and anticipation. But, this year, it also comes with reflection as we remember two of our members whom we will greatly miss - Representative Greg Forristall and Representative Curt Hanson. Our thoughts and prayers continue to be with their families and may we never forget their honorable service to our great state.

All of us here today, whether Republican or Democrat, return to do the people's work and it is the service of Iowans that we must always keep in mind. This great institution is stronger and our government works better, when we are willing to talk to each other, listen to each other's ideas and not merely dismiss them based on which letter follows their name on a ballot. I'm grateful for the many relationships I have developed on both sides of the aisle and working together on our shared interests.

It is a tremendous honor to lead this group of House Republicans. While pundits and prognosticators concern themselves with which direction the political winds may be blowing, those voices will do nothing to change our resolve. You are determined, committed, and principled leaders. There are voices out there that wish to stifle our every effort and take us back to the old ways of doing things – instead, you continue to work hard, find creative policy solutions, and be unafraid to challenge the status quo.

Last year, we made extraordinary accomplishments due to the opportunity entrusted to us by Iowans. House Republicans remain committed to charting a brighter course for the state of Iowa by focusing on innovative policy solutions that look ahead to the next generation.

We must continue to boldly lead and always challenge yesterday's voices who seek to turn the calendar back. We will lead by looking ahead and always asking, "What's next?"

Every year, House Republicans are dedicated to responsible stewardship of the hard-earned resources of Iowa taxpayers. We are again committed to sound budget practices that demonstrate fiscal restraint, safeguard the priority needs of Iowans, and protect Iowa taxpayers.

Along with our commitment to strong budget leadership, we look forward to a broad conversation about reforming Iowa's tax code to make the system fairer, simpler, and more competitive. House Republicans would rather grow our economy than grow our government. Putting more dollars back into the pockets of Iowans will unleash our economy, expand our businesses, and empower our families.

As I have traveled the state meeting business and community leaders I often hear about challenges they face in recruiting and hiring skilled employees. House Republicans are excited to work on ideas to further develop Iowa's workforce. Not only can this help Iowa businesses grow, but these efforts will help individual Iowans find new and better careers. The needs of Iowa's economy are ever-changing, and we must continue to help prepare all Iowans for greater prosperity in a twenty-first century economy.

Each of us makes a sacrifice to be here; but, it is important to reflect on the sacrifices each of our families make, and often, their sacrifice is far greater than ours. Without their patience and support nothing I've accomplished here would have been possible.

To close, my prayer today is that God will continue to bless each one of us, the people we represent, and the great State of Iowa.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE TO NOTIFY THE GOVERNOR

Highfill of Polk, Chair of the committee to notify the Governor that the House was duly organized and ready to receive any communication she might desire to transmit, reported that the committee had performed its duty.

The report was accepted and the committee discharged.

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER M. SMITH

Thank you, Madam Speaker and good morning members of the Iowa House of Representatives.

I especially want to welcome Representative Jon Jacobsen and Representative Phil Miller, who were elected in special elections held during the interim. Congratulations on your honor and responsibility to represent the people of your districts.

Over the interim, we lost two members who devoted a good deal of their lives to this body: Representative Greg Forristall and Representative Curt Hanson. Both wanted to keep the seriousness of their illnesses as quiet as possible. Both will be missed.

I once had the honor of sitting next to Representative Hanson. In all my years here, I have never seen someone interact with constituents better than Curt. He was patient and kind. He had a folksy manner in which he could disagree and still be on friendly terms. This is a business where you often create enemies, but Curt never did.

Curt was a driver's education teacher for over forty years. I can only imagine some of those car rides flying through county highways in rural SE Iowa. I believe these experiences gave him his ever calm demeanor, no matter how stressful the situation. I spent a good amount of time with Curt close to the end and his ability to bring levity to his own situation always amazed me. He will be missed dearly.

House Democrats believe it's time for the Legislature to work together and get back to the basics. That means focusing our efforts on good jobs and boosting our skilled workforce. It means renewing our commitment to public schools. And it means working together to make health care both more affordable and accessible.

It's our job here to make life better for Iowans and their families, not make it more difficult. Since we left the Statehouse last May, a lot has happened.

The gross mismanagement of the state budget has been on display consistently since we adjourned last year. In just a few short years, the state budget has gone from a $900 million surplus to a $259 million deficit last year.

After putting $130 million on the state's credit card to balance the budget in the closing days of session last year, the 2017 budget went in deficit for the third time last summer. Our new Governor announced she would transfer money and put millions more on the state's credit card to cover the deficit yet again.

After reviewing the law carefully, members of the House Democratic Caucus joined State Treasurer Michael Fitzgerald in expressing concern about the transfer because it did not meet the requirements of our law. However, the Governor illegally transferred the money anyway. So, the first order of business this session has to be to clean up the 2017 budget mess. Next, this body will have to take action on the 2018 budget, which is now in deficit, because the budget you approved last session spent more than we took in. Again.

House Democrats will work this session to protect the taxpayers of Iowa and restore fiscal discipline. We don't believe Iowans should be forced to clean up the budget mess and we will work to hold both the majority party and the Governor accountable.

Since we last met, there has been a lot of discussion about Iowa's skilled workforce. I've heard from members on both sides of the aisle that this must be a top priority this session and I couldn't agree more. Iowa businesses want better trained workers. Iowans want to improve their incomes by furthering their education. At no time in our state's history has the need for education and training after high school been more important.

I'm optimistic that we can make good progress this session in growing our skilled workforce.

However, it's essential that this body look at the big picture. We'll never reach our goal of increasing the number of skilled workers here in Iowa if we don't acknowledge and address the fundamental challenges facing public education today.

Our public schools and educators have been asked to do more with less for too many years. School leaders are warning us that the Legislature's continued anemic investment in public schools does not give them the tools they need to prepare Iowa students to compete in the global economy. They have warned us about the struggles to maintain the quality of life in rural communities and the over-reliance on property taxes to fund education because of a lack of investment from the Legislature. Now, our public schools worry about vouchers siphoning money away from our public schools.

This body must also acknowledge the challenges in higher education. Every dollar cut from higher education results in higher tuition and more debt for Iowans who want to improve their skills and offer more to their communities and state. Last session, over $20 million was stripped from our community colleges and universities which led to another round of tuition hikes for Iowa students. We can't continue to make higher education unaffordable and out of reach for thousands of students and expect to fix the skilled worker shortage we face at the same time.

House Democrats believe it's time for the Legislature to renew our commitment to public schools and keep training after high school affordable for all so we can grow our skilled workforce.

In the first decade of this century, the Iowa General Assembly worked together to provide a greater degree of health care to its people than other states. A decade later when the Affordable Care Act was enacted, Republicans and Democrats worked together again to give Iowans more options for their health care.

Since that time, however, our healthcare system has deteriorated rapidly and nowhere is that more apparent than Medicaid privatization. Some providers have closed and others have taken on debt because they aren't getting paid. Iowans are still scrambling to find the care they need. The whole system was thrown in chaos again when one of the private companies left Iowa and left over 200,000 Iowans in the lurch. Because of privatization, Iowans are getting less care and have fewer options today.

The good news is there was bipartisan agreement at the Health Policy Committee meeting last month that Medicaid privatization is failing Iowans right now. It's up to us to fix these problems this session -- and quickly -- before more Iowans die unnecessarily.

Since we last met here, more tragic deaths have occurred as a result of our failing mental health system. Since I first began work as a social worker 43 years ago, research has unraveled more and more of the mysteries of the human brain. With more precision and at earlier stages, mental illnesses can be detected and treated.

However, as policy makers, we have not kept up with the science. Much more can and should be done to intervene and treat mental health conditions. We need to invest in the training of all levels of mental health professionals; develop a community-based, comprehensive treatment approach that includes substance abuse disorders; and fix the way we fund our system that punishes rural counties with higher rates than urban counties.

My grandfather was an eighth grade educated Iowa farmer who lived by the rules of feeding your family, honoring the soil, and being a good neighbor. Feeding our family is actually being nurturing to all who make Iowa their home.

Honoring our soil is one of the most important actions we can take and being a good neighbor encourages us to have clean water and fair policies so that we welcome those around us. We have three pressing obligations this session: 1) to continue producing food for the world, 2) to replenish our soil so that we hand it down to future generations, and 3) to improve water quality. We cannot wait longer to address these critical issues.

In the past, we have worked in a bipartisan manner to address the challenges we face and we, as House Democrats, stand ready to do so again. However, our involvement should and must be from the beginning.

Whether it's health care, water quality, education, or building a skilled workforce, we can always say there will be another time to make progress. We can always put off until tomorrow what we should do today. Those restraints did not stop our ancestors for having the courage to tackle the problems facing them in the Great Depression or when they were breaking Iowa's sod for the first time. It's time for us to tackle the challenges we face today. Together.

I close with a quote from the elegant poet, Maya Angelo: "History with its wrenching pain cannot go un-lived, but when faced with courage, need not be lived again." A bright future for Iowa is a head, if we prepare for it today.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER UPMEYER

Welcome back to the Iowa House!

It has been 262 days since we adjourned the 2017 session. Normally, that would sound like a long time, but today it sure feels short.

In those 262 days, we have done exactly what was intended of this citizen legislature. We went home to our families, we went to work and we spent time with our communities. Most importantly, we spent time listening.

I am so proud every time I talk with one of you or I pick up a newspaper and see the engagement you have with your communities. Countless miles, meetings, and conversations are what filled those 262 days.

So today, we call the Iowa House back to order and we bring with us the benefits of being home to live, work, and listen. We will do with that experience what I believe we do better than anyone else in the country, we will put it into action.

Last month, Iowa's unemployment rate dropped to the lowest it has been in 17 years, 2.9%! However, I know that behind that number are too many Iowan's who lack the training or the experience for the high-skilled and high-wage careers that many employers are looking to fill right now.

This is about the essence of the American dream, upward mobility. We have so much talent in this state, we cannot let it slip away. We must connect today's workforce with training and certification so they can achieve that dream... a career and security for their families.

We must work both in our classrooms and with employers so that our future workforce gets an effective education that prepares them for the careers and emerging industries that will drive our state forward.

I want Iowans to find their American dream right here at home and I am happy to work with Governor Reynolds on a plan of action that will focus on results that will benefit every Iowan and every community.

If Iowa is going to be a place that our children and grandchildren choose to stay, we must also offer them access to the affordable healthcare they need and the quality they deserve. For years, I have complained about burdensome federal regulations stripping us of our ability as a state to address our own needs.

With the collapse of the individual insurance market, we have seen the consequences of failed federal policies. I am tired of complaining, I am tired of waiting. It is time for us as a state to act.

Before long, Iowans will begin to see how federal tax reform benefits each of them and their families. Individual taxpayers in Iowa are estimated to save over $1.5 billion, and more money in Iowan's pockets is a great thing.

Because of federal deductibility, federal tax cuts for Iowans could mean a higher state tax burden in future years. Those tax cuts were intended to remain with the hardworking taxpayers of Iowa. Let's make sure that happens!

We have a huge opportunity to grow the state of Iowa with tax reform. We should be excited about this but we must also be pragmatic. It must be done in a way that benefits Iowa families while also protecting the sustainability of future budgets.

No single one of us can get anything done without working together and finding some level of consensus in this room. Do not let the days of this session slip away waiting for someone to reach out to work with you. Be the one who reaches out and inspires others to come together. Let there be many fingerprints on our work, and we will be more successful because of it.

Our ability to turn ideas into action is the hallmark of the Iowa House. Now I want us to get down to business, so maybe I can help by wrapping up this speech!

Ladies and gentlemen, let's get back to work!

Thank you.

The House stood at ease at 10:38 a.m., until the fall of the gavel.

The House resumed session at 10:42 a.m., Speaker Upmeyer in the chair.

Lieutenant Governor, Mr. President, Madam Speaker, legislative leaders, Senators and Representatives, justices and judges, elected officials, distinguished guests, family, friends, and my fellow Iowans.

It is an honor to be here today, as your 43rd governor and to deliver my first Condition of the State Address.

What a country and state we live in, where a small town girl from rural Iowa can become governor and have the opportunity to serve Iowans at the highest level.

I hope that can be an inspiration to every waitress, every grocery checker, every overworked and stressed out mom, and the little girls who dare to dream: In Iowa, if you're willing to work for it, those dreams can come true.

I want to begin by taking a moment to recognize the heroes among us, the brave men and women serving in the military, law enforcement, and as first responders, on behalf of Iowans we extend our deepest gratitude for your sacrifice and service.

I also want to recognize with shared sadness, those who are not with us this year: Representative Greg Foristall, Representative Curt Hanson, former Senate Majority Leader Cal Hultman, former Speaker of the House Don Avenson, and former Lieutenant Governor Joy Corning. These were dedicated public servants and effective leaders who cared about their constituents and made a difference for the people of Iowa.

Today, I'm proud to report to the people of Iowa and their Representatives, that, because our ability to dream is infinite and the will of our people is great, the condition of our state is strong.

Iowa is ranked 3rd best-managed state in America, and the number one state for middle class families.

Our graduation rate is the highest in the nation, while unemployment is one of the lowest.

These successes are not by accident. Thanks to the strong leadership of this legislature, last year was the most pro-jobs session in decades!

But mostly, the success of our state has come from our people: hard-working and disciplined; innovative and driven.

The condition of our state is strong because Iowans are discovering and unleashing opportunities in our schools, on factory floors, on main streets, and around kitchen tables.

In 2017, I was proud to work with this Legislature to move our state forward. So let me take a moment to highlight what we have accomplished together.

We balanced the state budget, protecting taxpayers while safeguarding important priorities like education.

We invested in our kids at a record level, committing $735 million more for education since 2011.

We prepared our students for the jobs of tomorrow, through work-based learning, pre-apprenticeship and computer science programs.

We reformed collective bargaining and worker's compensation laws, putting more power in the hands of local governments and school districts, small businesses, and taxpayers.

We protected the ballot box with new voter ID laws.

We protected life, standing up for the most vulnerable by prohibiting late-term abortions. And we will never stop working to protect the unborn.

We restored liberties, by strengthening our 2nd amendment rights, and defended taxpayers against costly project labor agreements

We fought for Iowa farmers and a robust Renewable Fuel Standard, and we won!

And, I'm proud to report the Iowa Energy Plan is delivering action, by continuing to lead the nation in innovative energy ideas.

But, there is still unfinished business.

Improving water quality is a shared goal of Iowans. Urban and rural stakeholders have worked collaboratively making great strides.

My hope is that a water quality bill is the first piece of legislation I sign as Governor.

Let me assure you, passage of this monumental legislation does not mean the water quality discussion is over; rather it ignites the conversation to implement and scale practices that will continue to make an impact on water quality.

As we look back at 2017, it's clear we have much to be proud of. But now is the time to look forward.

My vision for the future is an Iowa overflowing with opportunity—opportunity for our working families, young people, and our communities, both rural and urban.

A place where it doesn't matter if you're rich or poor, young or old, male or female.

Where your last name and zip code aren't nearly as important as your ability to dream and willingness to reach for it.

A place where, if life got in the way of those dreams, you can find a second start.

And if you've made mistakes, you can find a second chance.

Because opportunity means everyone has a chance to succeed.

It doesn't mean government picking winners and losers, or waiting for government to fix every problem.

It means, when we face challenges, we do what Iowans have always done: roll up our sleeves and get to work.

While there are many issues to discuss today, I want to pause for a moment and talk about something that has captured the attention of the entire nation.

Throughout history, sexual harassment has been a stain on our culture, a destructive force—in politics, media and entertainment, in workplaces large and small—in all facets of life. And it must stop.

I commend the number of women who have found the courage to speak out.

As a woman, a mother of three girls, a grandmother, wife, sister, and daughter, I understand we're at an unprecedented moment in time.

I also understand that this is not a partisan issue. It can't be fixed by legislation or rule-making alone.

You cannot legislate kindness or respect or morality. They must be taught. And that means the solution starts with every individual, man or woman. It's about showing respect to others. It's about character and decency. And it's about changing the culture once and for all.

All of us in public office must ensure not only a safe workplace but serve as a model for the public and private sector.

What we do here matters. Iowans are watching. We can't change behavior everywhere, but we have an obligation to lead and, as long as I am Governor, we're going to.

Iowans are good people. They're humble people. And no matter our differences on policy and politics, we must always strive to reflect the goodness of those we represent.

It is the people of Iowa who make this job what it is, and I love waking up every day with the opportunity to make a difference.

And while I love our capital city and everything it offers, I believe the heart, soul, and spirit of Iowa will always remain in our small towns and rural communities.

From Decorah to Manning, LeMars to Mt. Pleasant and everywhere in between, we are defined as Iowans who dream big in these small places.

Like many of you, I grew up in one of those small towns and when I go home, I hear the disappointment and I share the frustration when another storefront closes. I appreciate the hard work taking place by community leaders to keep our main streets alive and vibrant.

Our downtowns are the backdrop for memories and the foundation for future success stories. Their buildings, businesses and people have character, and they are the hubs for economic growth.

Our work ethic is our currency and people all over Iowa are ready to invest this valuable resource in their communities.

So today I'm announcing a new initiative that focuses on rural Iowa, which I have asked Lieutenant Governor Gregg to lead.

We will bring together leaders from across Iowa with different backgrounds to be part of this effort.

Iowans who have lived in rural communities all of their lives, those who recently moved there, young professionals, successful business owners, and those just starting out.

This new initiative will promote investment and connect rural Iowa by expanding broadband capabilities in every corner of our state. Our goal: to keep and bring home Iowa's sons and daughters and grow the next generation of community leaders.

Last month, Congress passed historic tax reform—legislation that gives significant tax cuts to working-class Iowans, and gives even greater relief for families who are raising children. Across the board, in virtually every income bracket, Iowans will see relief.

For that, I want to thank Congress and the President. Because every day, I meet Iowans who tell me that, no matter how hard they work, they're still treading water and struggling to make ends meet.

But here's the thing: Because of an outdated provision in Iowa's tax code, Iowans will see a tax increase if we don't pass tax reform at the state level.

Iowa is one of only three states that allow taxpayers to deduct their federal taxes. While that might sound like a good thing, right now it's not.

It creates complexity, and worse—it means that when your federal taxes go down, your Iowa taxes go up. And it often punishes those who we want to help the most.

With federal deductibility in place, when the federal government cuts taxes for working-class families, Iowa raises taxes on those same families.

When the federal government cuts taxes for farmers and small businesses, Iowa raises taxes on farmers and small businesses.

That's not just a hypothetical. It's what will happen if we don't act.

Therefore, I will be proposing a tax reform package that significantly reduces rates, modernizes our tax code, eliminates federal deductibility, and provides real tax relief for middle class families, farmers, and small businesses.

This is an opportunity to free us from decisions made in Washington, D.C. and simplify our tax code. And, more important, Iowans will keep more of their hard-earned money.

Like many Iowans, Kevin and I lived on a tight budget while raising our girls. We had to focus on priorities, making tough decisions on what we could and couldn't afford.

It's no secret we are working through difficult times with our state budget. So we have to focus on what we can afford. While I want to reduce our uncompetitive corporate taxes, this is not the year.

But in the meantime, I will be creating a bipartisan task force to analyze every tax credit and come back with recommendations before the next legislative session. This will provide the opportunity to address our corporate tax rate with a better understanding of the larger picture.

It may take a multi-year effort, but we are going to completely reform our tax code. We're going to make Iowa more competitive, and we're going to continue to be a place where businesses—big and small—want to grow and expand.

Nearly everything that is important to our future—schools, jobs, energy, growth—depends on the health of our people. If Iowans aren't healthy, they can't learn, they can't work, they can't take care of their families, and they can't succeed.

Before the Affordable Care Act, Iowa had an individual insurance market with relatively low cost and high participation.

Now, our healthcare market is collapsing.

It's unaffordable. It's unsustainable. And it's unacceptable.

I continue to call on Congress to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act.

But we can't wait for Congress to fix it.

This session, we must work together to pass legislation that gives Iowa farmers, small business owners and their workers access to affordable insurance.

To meet the needs of our most vulnerable Iowans, to ensure we have affordable healthcare coverage for working families, to provide compassionate mental health care, and to fight the plague of opioid addiction, we must address these complex issues in a coordinated and strategic approach that builds on the progress we've made together.

Almost two years ago, we modernized our Medicaid system to an individualized, patient-centered approach that was already in place in 39 other states. It was a change that needed to be made.

Under the old system, costs soared, fraud occurred, it was unsustainable, and we weren't focused on patient outcomes.

I still believe managed care is the right decision for Iowa, but it has become very clear that mistakes were made in how it was done. Shortly after being sworn in as Governor, I took deliberate action to make a change. I hired a new director for the Department of Human Services, who has the passion, and—most importantly—the compassion to make this work. And he has hired a new Medicaid director with the experience to get things turned around.

With this new team in place, we are working with our caregivers to resolve issues in a timely manner and ensure on-time payments.

We are continuing to work with our Managed Care-Organizations to ensure Iowans are getting the best possible outcomes. And we are reaching patients in new and innovative ways to individualize their care.

This is something I think about and work on every day, because it is so important to so many Iowans. We will make this right.

We must also continue to provide compassionate mental health care.

In 2013, we redesigned Iowa's mental health system with bipartisan input and support. We moved from a county-by-county system to a regional network, ensuring the same core services for all Iowans, regardless of where they live.

150,000 more Iowans have mental health coverage today and have access to more local and modern services.

We've invested $2 billion in mental health services. And in 2016 we invested $4 million in a new psychiatric medical residency program to recruit and retain more psychiatrists.

But we must do more, and I know we can.

That's why I look forward to partnering with Des Moines University and the National Alliance on Mental Illness on their exciting new initiative, where every new doctor will receive the training and skills to identify and treat a patient with a mental health challenge.

I have included money in my budget for this innovative program. It will be the first-of-its-kind, and since Des Moines University trains more primary-care physicians than any medical school in the country, it's a significant step forward.

We have students and faculty from Des Moines University with us today. Please join in me thanking them for the leadership they have shown in mental health education and awareness.

To improve our mental health system, we can't just focus on the sheer number of beds; we must identify the gaps in our system.

In many cases, Iowans suffering from mental illness don't need hospitalization. But they also can't get the care they need at home.

They need a safe place to stay that offers professional services and a watchful eye.

We need to establish residential access centers that will provide short-term care for those in crisis. A place with the resources necessary to get these Iowans stabilized and back home to their families.

To help make that happen, I am asking the legislature to remove the cap on sub-acute beds.

And I am asking the mental health regions and our stakeholders to work with me to create a long-term and sustainable funding structure to establish these much-needed crisis access centers.

Creating a mental health system is complex and it won't be solved overnight. But no parent, child, friend or neighbor should suffer in silence when it comes to mental health.

Addiction can be just as anguishing for Iowa families and many of you know someone who has suffered from the wave of heroin and opioid addiction that is making its way through Iowa.

This issue is very personal to me. To the thousands of Iowans impacted by addiction, I've been there; I understand your struggles. My family understands your struggles. I know that life can be so much better.

Like it is for Caleb, a recovering opioid addict from Dubuque.

His life was saved after an overdose that nearly left him dead. Through the help of medicated-assisted treatment and a recovery program, he's turned his life around. Caleb's kept a job for over a year, received promotions and raises. And he's happier than he's ever been. While courageously sharing his story at our recent Opioid summit, Caleb said, "Even though I'm a high school drop-out, I feel like I'm very wealthy!"

Caleb, we're all richer for hearing your story.

In the past decade, opioid-related deaths have more than doubled, and will continue to rise unless we take action to reverse this heart-wrenching trend.

My plan to address this epidemic includes, increase use of the Prescription Monitoring Program, supporting enhanced intervention for Iowans addicted to opioids, and expanding medicated assisted treatment, the very program that helped Caleb.

And today I am calling on the legislature to pass legislation to reduce the number of opioids prescribed in Iowa.

This is a big step in the right direction. It will change lives and provide opportunities for a brighter future.

The foundation for a bright future starts early. So when we talk about unleashing opportunity and prioritizing our budget, nothing is more important to me than investing in our children.

In today's changing economy, whether our kids are bound for a four-year college, a community college, trade school, apprenticeship, military service, or headed into the workforce, we must prepare them for a productive and successful life.

That's why we have invested over $37 million in STEM through public private partnerships. One school district and community that has embraced STEM education from the very beginning is Harlan. From being the first school to participate in National Guard STEM Day to Pint-Size Science, the Harlan School District is a perfect example of how schools, businesses, and communities are preparing their students for the jobs of tomorrow. We have students from Harland here today; please join me in welcoming them!

Since taking office seven years ago, we have added $735 million in new money to our preK-12 education systems.

At $3.3 billion, funding is at an all-time high.

In fact, a recent study by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities found that over the last 10 years, only three states increased education funding at a higher rate than Iowa.

Education is a priority, and we will continue to back that up with real money.

In my budget I am proposing $54 Million in new money for our schools.

We have also maintained our commitment to school choice, which offers families the option to teach their values, beliefs, and viewpoints to their children.

That's why my tax reform plan will expand 529 plans to include K-12 education.

But we also can't fall into the trap of measuring the quality of our education system by the sheer number of dollars we put into it. If we're not focused on preparing our young people for the future, then we are failing.

The economy is changing, the demand of the workforce is changing, and our education system must change with it.

On that front, Iowa is ahead of the game.

Last fall, Mike Rowe, the host of Dirty Jobs, visited Central Campus in Des Moines and called its pre-apprenticeship program a model for high schools all over the country. He talked about how welding, carpentry, nursing, drywall, automotive—all the major trades—were represented.

We are fortunate to have students with us today from Central Campus!

When talking about your school, Mike said that you have a pre-apprenticeship program that rivals the best he's ever seen; that you, the kids in this program, are given real-world experience. So real, that your high-school classes are translating into college credits.

We can and should emulate your program around our state.

And the initiative to help us do that is Future Ready Iowa.

Future Ready Iowa will create an environment where opportunity is unleashed. A place where high-paying new jobs are seamlessly linked with a motivated and highly-skilled workforce.

In Iowa, the careers of tomorrow are being created today, with starting salaries of $40,000, even $50,000 a year just waiting to be filled.

In fact, right now, there are more than 55,000 job openings on the Iowa Workforce Development website, many in high-demand, high-paying fields.

At the same time, we all have friends, relatives, and neighbors who are ambitious and hard-working but lacking the skills or self-confidence they need to reach out and seize one of those careers.

But, this morning, I'd like to introduce you to one Iowan, Amy Boozell, who chased her dream and earned the career she always wanted.

Amy's college story began more than 20 years ago, when she was a new mother. At the age of 19, she put her dreams on hold so she could put her child first. Later, she attended community college off and on, but it never resulted in a degree. But Amy had the courage and initiative to keep trying.

In 2016, after two and a half years of study, sleepless nights, and sacrifice, Amy crossed the stage at the age of 42, receiving her hard-earned diploma from Iowa State University.

I know Amy's story, because that day, I walked across the very same stage.

We sat next to each other at graduation, at ages 42 and 57, a mother of 5 and a mother of 3, aware that just because life got in the way didn't mean that opportunity had to be forever out of reach.

To every Iowan wanting to do more, to make that dream a reality, if Amy and I can do it, so can you. Amy, please stand so we can congratulate you!

Today, just over half of our workforce has training or education beyond high school. We're going to change that.

By 2025, our goal is for 70% of Iowa workers to have the skills they need to land a great job.

To reach that goal, we will partner with the private sector to rapidly expand education and training opportunities for more than 127,000 working men and women.

It's a big challenge, but we're going to get there. And we're starting now.

Today I am calling on the legislature to pass the Future Ready Iowa Act. It's a bill that creates opportunities for Iowans of all ages and experiences. Opportunities to get the skills they need for a rewarding career.

It starts with K-12 system. I want children to know, from the earliest age, that they have options. I want them to know that trade programs and community colleges can prepare them for high-paying careers

In Manchester, a company called Henderson Products, needed skilled welders. So they partnered with West Delaware High School and Northeast Iowa Community College to establish a program that gives students a head start on learning the valuable skilled trade of welding while still in high school. It gave Henderson the workforce they needed.

Through the success of this partnership, Henderson has hired nearly 30 new welders. For a town of 5,000 people, that has a real impact.

That's why I've included $500,000 in my budget to expand this type of work-based learning.

We have students from West Delaware High here today, please join me in recognizing them for their outstanding work!

We must do everything we can to steer Iowans—young and old—to training programs that lead to great careers. To do that, we'll create a new scholarship for Iowans who decide to pursue up to a two-year degree in a high-demand field, like nursing, advanced manufacturing, or computer science. These scholarships will pay for the students' remaining tuition and will be available to Iowans of any age, whether they just graduated from high school or are looking to change careers.

We'll also create a new grant program for people who started a four-year degree but never finished. So people like Amy know it's never too late. If this is your dream, now is the time to chase it.

I also want to increase our support for apprenticeships, that's why I have included an additional $1 million in my budget to expand Iowa's current apprenticeship program to help more small- and mid-sized employers offer these life-changing opportunities.

Finally, working with the private sector, we will create the Iowa Employer Innovation Fund, which will revolutionize the way we think about workforce training.

Instead of government deciding which programs are needed, decisions will be made at the local level by the businesses and job creators. They'll invest their money, in the training programs that best fit their needs, and the State innovation fund will provide matching dollars.

Iowa's businesses are already stepping up. And I want to thank the Iowa Business Council for leading the way, by committing to hire 30,000 interns, externs, and apprentices by 2025.

Future Ready Iowa will have a real impact on Iowans. People like Georges Seakor, who is with us here today. He became an Iowan at the age of five, when his family moved here to escape violence in Liberia. While at Lincoln High School, through the IJAG program, Georges took advantage of an internship at Principal Financial which opened the door to a full-time job after graduation. Now Georges is studying at DMACC, while working at Principal—an opportunity that he never thought possible.

This is what happens when our young people see, at an early age, the opportunities that are available right here in Iowa. It's what happens when our businesses work with our schools. And it's what happens when our young people make the connection between an education and a career. George please stand so we can recognize your outstanding accomplishments!

As I said at the start, I believe that Iowa is—and ought to be—a place where, if you're willing to work for it, you can make your dreams come true.

My vision is to give the people of Iowa a place to call home that unleashes opportunity at every turn.

For all Iowans—for people like Caleb, Amy, and Georges—let us build a future where our ability to dream is infinite and the will of our people remains eternally unbroken.

From the cities and suburbs, to our smallest towns and rural communities, together, we are greater than the sum of our parts.

Together, the condition of our state is strong.

And together, we can pass on to our children an Iowa even greater than the one we inherited.

May God bless you, and continue to bless the great state of Iowa.

CONDITION OF THE JUDICIAL BRANCH MESSAGE

Mister president, madam speaker, distinguished members of the Iowa General Assembly, Governor Reynolds, state officials, colleagues, family, friends, and everyone who joins us this morning to hear the condition of Iowa's judicial system.

One of the simple pleasures in my life was the opportunity to drive my daughter to her grade school in the morning. It did not occur often enough, but enough to produce a lasting memory—not from any words spoken, but from the moments I spent watching her walk from the car to the school door. Before she disappeared inside for the day, she always looked back to see if I was still there for her.

Everyone is dependent upon the support of others, and each year the courts look to you for support. Not just your financial support to maintain our current level of services to Iowans or to keep the courthouse doors open. But, consistent with the expectations of Iowans, the support for our court system to continue to innovate, to be a part of transformational change, to be the very best we can be.

Our founders built government for all Americans to grow to be better than we once were—to form “a more perfect union.” And they created a court system to work towards this end in perpetuity. As from the beginning, the court's role in this pursuit of a “more perfect union” is to advance justice through decisions made to resolve disputes. Yet, this goal can also be achieved as much, if not more, by changes made to the process of justice—changes in the way courts do their work. As with any successful business and industry, a court system today must constantly examine the way it works, ask if better ways exist, and incorporate proven new ideas and technologies. This is what Iowa's court system must do.

So, as we begin this new year, the Iowa court system pauses again to look back at you for your support. We look back with a deep appreciation for the support shown to us in the past, and we look forward with hope your support will grow in the future. Iowa's court system is at its best when your support allows us to provide the level of services needed to best serve Iowans. Let me share with you examples of how the changes the court system is currently making to the process of justice are improving the lives of Iowans, beginning with the services we provide to Iowa's children.

The Process of Justice Serving Iowa's Children

Juvenile judges and juvenile court officers continue to serve the needs of children and families, and new stories of success continue to emerge from juvenile courts, diversion courts, and family treatment courts. These stories confirm that the innovative approaches to delivering justice I have highlighted for you over the last few years are working. These stories show how thoughtful changes to the process of justice transform hope into real opportunity for more children and their families and save millions of dollars for taxpayers. Better outcomes are achieved when the process of justice not only holds children accountable for their actions but holds them accountable to overcome the problems responsible for their criminal acts without imposing unnecessary burdens that only hold them back.

Juvenile courts and diversion programs continue to keep more children out of the formal court system by using community-based programs to address their needs and hold them accountable for their actions. While some children need to face the full force of the court system, we have learned most do not. Most children only need a process of justice that best assures their potential will be discovered and achieved. This is what the process of justice must be for all of Iowa's children.

One such juvenile program located in Polk County is called "Too Good To Lose." It is the only court program in the state, and one of the few in the nation, exclusively devoted to the unique challenges teenage girls face. All of the girls in the program committed criminal acts. All have turned to drugs. Some are mothers. Yet, they are all still children who, too many times, looked back for support that was not there. Children too young to understand they had also become victims—of sexual assault, domestic violence, or human trafficking. Children in need of a process of justice that sees them as too good to lose.

The mission of Too Good To Lose is to ensure that these girls are safe, remain drug free, receive an education, give back to the community, and heal. Since March 2016, 17 girls have entered the program, and 6 have now graduated. The success of this program can be attributed to the unique bond between the judge who oversees the court, the juvenile court officer who supervises the girls, the women from the community who come into court and share their experiences with the girls, and the girls themselves who now have people in their lives that they can look back to for support.

After I attended a graduation ceremony last November, the girls in the program sent me a thank you note. One wrote, "Thank you for joining me on my journey." Another wrote “you rock.” While I’m not sure about the meaning of “you rock,” I inquired further into the meaning of the journey I had joined that day. She wrote about it in an essay with these words:

Depression slowly crept into the night and I began to find myself drowning in my own tears. While living restless, I was having no motivation to get up in the morning. I was on the verge of giving up. I was unbelievably close. It was so out of control that I began to have legal problems and was on probation for using substances. Home wasn’t any better and I believe at that point I did give up. I didn’t care what happened to me, I was just reckless, falling into a deeper hole before I knew it.

Today, this young girl is on track to graduate from Too Good To Lose and from high school, with college in her future and dreams to pursue. Her journey is our journey. Too Good To Lose needs to become a movement, a movement that begins in Iowa. Every child is too good to lose. We must not stand by and allow any one of them to be left behind. This is what the process of justice must be for Iowa’s children.

The Process of Justice and Problem-Solving Courts

Too Good to Lose is part of a comprehensive commitment by the court system to build a process of justice that not only holds offenders accountable for their crimes but, when possible, gives them the tools needed to overcome the problems behind the criminal conduct. When rehabilitation is achieved without imprisonment, justice is advanced and the expense of incarceration is avoided.

Currently, 47 problem-solving courts are operating in Iowa, including 20 adult drug courts, 4 mental health courts, and 1 veterans court. The mental health court in Scott County has been operating for just over a year, and in that short time, 19 individuals have successfully participated in the program. All of the individuals are connected with a doctor and are medication compliant. For these offenders, this achieves rehabilitation. This court is a small but important step in addressing the mental health needs of Iowans who have violated the law. It shows how improving the process of justice leads to better outcomes and how expanding these courts statewide would benefit more Iowans. It is also a step that shows the benefits of avoiding the expense of attempting to treat mental health needs through incarceration. In its brief existence, the Scott County mental health court has generated a cost avoidance of over $300,000. This is what the process of justice must be for all Iowans.

The Process of Justice in the Criminal Justice System

We continue to explore ways to improve the process of justice to achieve better results from the criminal justice system. In doing so, we have learned of the substantial and often unnecessary collateral consequences for Iowans who are financially unable to pay their bail when arrested and remain in jail. These consequences include separation from family, loss of job, loss of housing, and much more. While bail must always serve to protect the public and ensure future appearances in court, it should never serve to incarcerate solely because the person does not have the financial ability to post bail.

For more than a year we have been working with the department of corrections to develop a new public safety assessment for judges to use in deciding whether to release or detain criminal defendants before trial. The assessment was developed from years of data and research by the Arnold Foundation. It is designed to assist judges in making evidence-based release or detention decisions. The assessment does not replace a judge’s discretion, but it enhances a judge’s ability to determine the public safety risk of the person appearing before the bench. Other states using this assessment have safely experienced a reduction in their jail populations and pretrial crime rates. We expect similar outcomes will be achieved in Iowa. But most importantly, this approach is aligned with our pursuit to improve justice. Criminal offenders should be punished pursuant to a sentence prescribed by law, not by unnecessary and unfair consequences of the process of justice itself. This is what the process of justice must be for all Iowans.

Investing in the Process of Justice

With every step we take to improve the process of justice, we also make justice more efficient and less costly to Iowa taxpayers. Last year, Iowa's juvenile diversion programs diverted more than 10,000 children from the formal court system. These programs alone avoided more than $14 million in costs to other parts of the state budget. Family treatment courts served more than 300 families last year generating a cost avoidance of more than $3.5 million in the human services budget. Other specialty courts avoided $4 million in costs. These programs are in addition to the $146 million the Iowa court system collects for the general fund. Last year, the total return on investment in your court system was more than $178 million. Your investment in the process of justice benefits Iowa's taxpayers.

Let me mention two additional steps taken last year to improve the process of justice.

First, in October, the supreme court formed a commission to find better ways to ensure that juries reflect the diversity of each community. Juries make decisions that have a profound and lasting impact on the lives of Iowans. These decisions are improved when diverse thoughts and experiences are shared and considered. So is public confidence in the process of justice. So is the promise of justice for all. Your court system is better when there is public confidence in the fairness of the criminal justice system. This is what the process of justice must be for all Iowans.

Second, the supreme court issued a courthouse security order in June last year to enhance the safety and integrity of our process of justice within each courthouse. In December, the order was modified so our county partners can have greater leeway to assist in this mission. I just want you to know that we are committed to working with you and with counties, sheriffs, legislators, law enforcement, and others to achieve the common goal of protecting Iowans who conduct business and work in county courthouses. Courthouse security is inseparable from the concept of justice itself.

Current Challenges to the Process of Justice

While it is nice to report on our progress towards justice for all, I feel obligated to also report on our shortcomings. These deficiencies are not what Iowans expect or deserve. They are growing in number, as are consequences.

We must remember that justice ultimately comes from the people who work in the justice system. Today, the court system employs 182 fewer people than authorized just one year ago. This is a 10% reduction in workforce. As expected, efficiencies gained through the integration of technology into our operations account for some of the workforce reduction. But, we are currently operating with 115 essential positions unfilled, and this number is growing. This means there are fewer judges, fewer court reporters, fewer case schedulers, and fewer juvenile court officers. It means there is a daily struggle to coordinate and deliver services. It means Iowans are losing access to justice. Two years ago, I told you about our commitment that all cases would be timely tried on the date set for trial, without delay. We have been forced to walk back from this pledge because we do not have enough people to do the work to keep it. So, the delays we were rapidly eliminating from the process of justice are returning and affecting your constituents who need our services to resolve their disputes. But that is not all. Today, Iowans who reside in rural areas are receiving fewer court services than the Iowans in urban areas. Today, a freeze on new specialty courts exists so that the critical services provided by a specialty court in one county are not being provided in another county. Today, I am concerned all of this causes us to lose our focus on the quality and promise of justice. This is not what the process of justice should be.

In past years, I have reported on the benefits that technology is giving Iowa's court system and its process of justice, including our paperless filing system. Yet, last October, the technology that supports the electronic filing system failed unexpectedly and could not be used for a week. This crippling situation resulted from an inadequate backup system, which we know needs to be upgraded with better technology to prevent a future system outage. The outage meant Iowans were unable to file or access court documents, and judges were unable to access and work on court files. This must not happen again. This is not what the process of justice should be.

These shortcomings, and others, are mostly the result of insufficient resources, and the shortcomings continue to be revealed in new ways every day. They are also beginning to tear at the very fabric of our operation and mission. Ominous signs are appearing. This year, more judges will be retiring than in previous years. For the last decade now, fewer and fewer private practice attorneys are seeking a career on the bench. Civil case filings continue to decline, as lawyers and litigants choose to pursue alternative means to resolve disputes. This is not what the process of justice should be.

Overall, the writing is on the wall. Our shortcomings and their consequences have not gone unnoticed in the most recent ratings of the 50 state court systems from the United States Chamber of Commerce. In past years I have spoken of these ratings to illustrate our success. This last year, Iowa fell from its proud position as the fourth best court system in the nation to thirteenth place. This is not the direction a justice system should be headed. This is not how our process of justice should be seen.

Future Challenges to the Process of Justice

With your support, however, our shortcomings today can be opportunities to be a better court system tomorrow. We know additional challenges lie ahead, but with your continued investment, these too can be opportunities. So, as we work to overcome our current challenges to better our process of justice, we must also prepare to meet the challenges ahead.

One challenge can be seen in the growing signs that the opioid crisis has reached Iowa. While this will be a challenge for all, Iowa courts must prepare to respond now. Court services will be an essential part of the collective effort to minimize the loss of life and the devastation inflicted on families in our state. Fortunately, we know that family treatment courts and drug courts are up to the task. These courts, however, must be expanded and retooled to address the myriad issues families and children confront when affected by opioid addiction. This is what the process of justice must be.

Not all challenges are as visible as the opioid epidemic. Cybersecurity has rapidly emerged as a vital issue for the court system. The electronic filing system now stores more than 20 million documents containing sensitive personal information, corporate data, and intellectual property. As in the private sector, courts need to invest in technology and take all necessary steps to ensure that Iowans' vital information is secured and protected against cyberattack and natural disasters. This is what the process of justice must be.

Yet, the greatest challenge facing the court system today is the unprecedented technological transformation rapidly shaping the way we communicate, think, and even live together. As in most aspects of life, it is giving rise to innovations and new industries that are displacing existing industries, even those that seemed impervious to change just a few years ago. The court system and the legal profession are not immune from this movement and will be challenged in significant ways very soon. The problem with disruptive innovation is not the change it brings, but the failure of existing systems to recognize it and adapt. The Iowa court system, like successful businesses today, needs support to integrate new technologies so the delivery of our services meets the expectations of Iowans. However, the Iowa court system is more than a business; its constitutional and common law components are essential to the future and must never be displaced.

A Defining Moment in Iowa's Process of Justice

From my perspective, there could not be a more important time to support Iowa's courts, or reasons more compelling. But the most important reason for supporting our courts is illustrated by looking back at one of the most important legal cases in Iowa's history. So it is fitting that this year we celebrate the 150th anniversary of this case and its importance today.

The case is called Clark v. Board of Directors. It was brought by an Iowan named Alexander Clark, who lived with his family in Muscatine. He turned to the courts in 1868 after his twelve-year-old daughter, Susan, was denied admission by the local school board to the public school in her neighborhood. She was denied admission because she was born to African-American parents. A separate school was located a mile away for African-American children to attend. I think Alexander Clark must have seen his daughter, too many times, look back at him for support when she walked past the door of her neighborhood school without entering. So, he turned to the process of government established by our forefathers and asked Iowa's courts for help.

The district court ordered the school board to admit Susan Clark to her neighborhood school, and an appeal brought the case before the Iowa Supreme Court. The supreme court found the school board's decision was supported by the prevailing sentiment of the community, as well as many other communities, but not by the laws and the constitution of our state. The court rejected the concept of segregated schools for Susan Clark and all children in Iowa.

The court wrote that just as a school board could not "require the children of Irish parents to attend one school, and the children of German parents another, the children of Catholic parents to attend one school, and the children of Protestant parents another," it could not require Susan Clark to attend a separate school for African-Americans. It then etched these iconic words into our history: "all the youths are equal before the law," and no institution of government has discretion "to interfere with or disturb that equality."

The case was a defining moment for Iowa and the nation. It occurred 86 years before the United States Supreme Court would follow in Brown v. Board of Education. It occurred at a time when there was a strong public sentiment for segregated schools but a stronger commitment by our courts to uphold the rule of law. It was a moment in time that shined a beacon of light on the process of justice for all time.

Affirming the Process of Justice

The last word written by the court on that day in 1868 was “affirmed.” It was written to affirm the decision of the district court, but it did much more that day. It affirmed Susan Clark as equal with every other child. It affirmed all Iowans as equal. It affirmed a new public sentiment for the future. It affirmed a process of justice in Iowa where one person can turn to the courts for justice and make a difference for all.

So, the Clark case is not just a celebration of an important principle of law. It gives us an important perspective and understanding to see the promise and value of our court system at this critical time today and the best reason in the world to support our courts. It gives us an opportunity to reaffirm Iowa’s commitment to justice today in a way that will allow generations to look back 150 years from today and celebrate another defining moment in our history.

CONDITION OF THE IOWA NATIONAL GUARD MESSAGE

Good morning Ladies and gentlemen – thank you for your warm welcome.

Speaker Upmeyer, President Whitver, distinguished members of the Iowa Senate and House of Representatives, honored guests from the Republic of Kosovo, thank you for the opportunity to once again address this joint convention of the Eighty-Seventh General Assembly of the Iowa Legislature.

Today, it is my honor and privilege once again to stand before the joint session of the Iowa Legislature to provide this annual report on the current condition of the Iowa National Guard.

Your Iowa National Guard has evolved from a Territorial Militia created in 1839 into an operational force prepared to defend our state and nation during an era of uncertainty and persistent conflict.

For nearly 180 years, your Iowa National Guard has executed every mission assigned, responded without fail here at home, and deployed wherever needed in a moment's notice, all while making a positive impression wherever they serve.

Your Iowa National Guard is truly making a difference every day in Iowa and around the world.

I want to thank Governor Reynolds and Lieutenant Governor Gregg for attending our homecomings and sendoffs, your strong support of our families and employers, and your willingness to support our military ceremonies.

I would also like to thank our citizen-legislators, who have done so much to honor and support the Soldiers and Airmen of the Iowa National Guard over the years.

And I want to thank the people of Iowa.

Your support of our Soldiers, Airmen, and families has been absolutely incredible.

The Iowa National Guard exists to support and defend the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Iowa.

We do this by inspiring Iowans to serve here in Iowa and around the world.

We call these men and women Citizen-Soldiers or Citizen-Airmen.

Their desire to serve is often inspired by their parents or other family members, their friends, and their role models.

These men and women take an oath to put on a uniform and serve their community, state, and nation.

And from that moment, they make sacrifices for ideals that are larger than themselves.

These sacrifices may include spending long periods of time away from family and friends, delaying higher education and career plans, or otherwise putting their personal lives on hold to respond to the needs of their Commander in Chief, whether it's the Governor of Iowa or the President of the United States.

But despite the sacrifices, our Soldiers and Airmen grow immensely, both personally and professionally, from their decision to be a valuable team member of the Iowa National Guard.

Our motto of "We live here, we work here, we serve here" is more important today than ever.

The Iowa National Guard provides a multitude of opportunities to men and women from across this great state.

Our Soldiers and Airmen serve for many reasons: to capitalize on the opportunity to be an integral part of a world class team; to receive a two-year, four-year or technical school degree and graduate debt-free; to learn an occupational skill that will lead to meaningful employment; to travel the world and help people around the globe; to carry on the proud tradition of family service; or just to experience the satisfaction of doing something bigger than themselves.

No matter the reason, this is why the Iowa National Guard is so important to the well-being of the State of Iowa and a key element in the solution to solve some of Iowa's and the nation's pressing issues.

As we look around the globe, the international situation today is the most complex and demanding that I have seen in my 39 years of service.

In the Middle East, terrorists continue to kill innocent people and destroy critical infrastructure, despite significant and accelerating losses.

In Europe, for the first time since World War II, we've seen national borders changed by military aggression, as Russia ignores international law and assumes authority over its neighbors' sovereign rights to make decisions about their own country.

In the Pacific, North Korean provocations threaten regional and even global peace, despite universal condemnation by the United Nations.

In the United States, our homeland, unprecedented back-to-back natural disasters, coupled with major cyber-attacks, and the smallest military since before World War II test our nation's ability to fulfill our global commitments.

As a result of these challenges, the Department of Defense, the National Guard as a whole, and the Iowa National Guard in particular are having to adapt and change.

This is why my focus every day must be to ensure that the Iowa National Guard remains ready and we have the resources to accomplish our three core missions – fighting America's wars, securing the homeland, and building enduring partnerships at the local, state, federal and international levels.

Defending our state and nation are our primary missions.

To accomplish these tasks, my first priority is to provide ready forces to the President of the United States and the Governor of Iowa.

Our state's contribution to providing ready forces for the warfight mission can't be overstated, as evidenced by approximately 800 Iowa National Guard Soldiers and Airmen currently mobilized for combat operations around the globe.

With a total of more than 19,000 Iowa National Guard members serving on active duty since September 11, 2001, Iowa has unquestionably done its part to support our nation.

Last August, approximately 35 Soldiers assigned to Detachment 1, Company C, 2nd of the 211th General Support Aviation Battalion from Waterloo, deployed to the Middle East to provide aerial medical evacuations in support of coalition forces.

We expect these Soldiers to return to Iowa in late Spring 2018.

In September, approximately 400 Soldiers assigned to the 248th Aviation Support Battalion from Muscatine, Davenport, Waterloo, and Boone deployed to the Middle East to provide aviation maintenance and logistical support to a combat aviation brigade.

This deployment of Soldiers is the largest, single-unit deployment of the Iowa National Guard since 2010.

We expect these Soldiers to return to Iowa in Summer 2018.

In addition to our Soldiers deploying this past year, our deployed Airmen from the 185th Air Refueling Wing, 132nd Wing, and the 133rd Test Squadron have been busy supporting the warfight with ongoing aircraft refueling support, cyber security protection, Remotely Piloted Aircraft operations, and testing new Air Force battlespace/air traffic control systems worldwide.

In the past year alone, the 185th Air Refueling Wing in Sioux City has deployed more than 200 Airmen to the Middle East to provide ongoing refueling support of real-world missions to the Air Force, Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and coalition aircraft supporting the fight against ISIS.

The 133rd Test Squadron in Fort Dodge has approximately 60 members currently deployed in the Middle East conducting testing on Air Force Command and Control systems and are expected to return back to Iowa in Spring 2018.

This deployment is the first of its kind for the unit since 9/11.

Since the conversion from F-16 fighter aircraft to three new missions consisting of Remotely Piloted Aircraft, a Cyberspace Operations Squadron, and an Intelligence Surveillance Reconnaissance Group, more than 230 Airmen from the 132nd Wing in Des Moines have served on active duty at home and around the globe.

Due to the amazing advances in technology, the 132nd Wing is able to provide targeting support, MQ-9 Reaper Remotely Piloted Aircraft persistent attack and reconnaissance capability, and cyber security protection around the globe from the Des Moines Airbase.

In the near future, additional Iowa Army and Air National Guard units and individuals have been identified for potential overseas deployments.

With the level of global uncertainty today, the velocity of instability, and potential for significant conflict around the world, we are now at a point where current and projected demands for our assets around the globe to support the warfight will remain at a high operations tempo.

Here at home, our mission is to be the primary military crisis response force for Iowa, and in other parts of the homeland when necessary.

We use the experience and capabilities we gain from training and combat to assist civilian authorities in responding to threats here in Iowa such as large scale natural disasters, cyberattacks, or chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear attacks.

I am happy to report that for most of 2017, it was a relatively quiet year for our emergency response operations.

We used this available time to plan, prepare, and rehearse for potential disaster response on a multitude of scenarios.

In order to be more prepared and have the ability to respond quickly and effectively, the Iowa National Guard has developed an All-Hazards Support Plan to help our state plan and execute various response and recovery operations.

However, that all changed in September, when the United States experienced three hurricanes that struck the homeland back-to-back over a three-week period of time: Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria.

During the course of these events, we received numerous Emergency Management Assistance Compact requests from Texas, Florida, and Puerto Rico for Iowa National Guard forces, capabilities, and equipment to assist their communities respond quickly to the devastation.

We sent several helicopters and aircrews to support Texas and Florida, but our largest and most sustained assistance came from the 132nd Wing, Des Moines, and the 185th Air Refueling Wing, Sioux City.

These units deployed 25 Security Forces personnel to Puerto Rico in a moment's notice, established security for critical facilities on the island, including the main airport, and enabled the restoration of electricity and transportation of food, water, and medical supplies.

Iowa's Airmen served in Puerto Rico for nearly two months, until the island was stabilized.

While providing trained and ready Soldiers and Airmen for combat and domestic response missions is the primary focus of the Iowa National Guard, building enduring partnerships comprises our third mission, which is an essential part of our success.

We accomplish our assigned tasks overseas and at home only through the partnerships we forge at the local, state, federal and international levels.

One of the most important collaborations is through our State Partnership Program relationship with the Republic of Kosovo and the Kosovo Security Force.

Since March 2011, the Iowa National Guard and the Kosovo Security Force have enjoyed a strong and dynamic partnership founded on mutual respect and admiration with a common interest in facilitating stability within Eastern Europe.

In support of this program, our Soldiers and Airmen work side-by-side with their Kosovo Security Force counterparts to: develop their Non-Commissioned Officer corps; improve their communications, operational logistics and military medical capabilities; and enhance their ability to respond to natural disasters and cyber threats.

A vital element to the success of this relationship is our whole of society vision, which has expanded this important program of exchanges far beyond the Iowa National Guard.

We now have a fully-functional Republic of Kosovo consulate office located in the heart of downtown Des Moines, working every day to expand cooperation between business and industry, agriculture, education, law enforcement and many other sectors important to both the state of Iowa and the Republic of Kosovo.

Kosovo's relationship with the United States and the State of Iowa is an important factor to maintaining peace and security in the Balkans region and facilitating economic growth and development in Europe's newest democracy.

So important is this partnership to Kosovo that First Deputy Prime Minister Behgjet (buh jet) Pacolli (putz OH lee) is with us this morning to lend his support and cooperation to the continued growth and success of this important partnership.

Please give a warm Iowa welcome to First Deputy Prime Minister Pacolli. Thank you for joining us today.

In addition to the State Partnership Program, we have continued our partnerships with: Home Base Iowa; the "Enlist, Educate, Employ" program with seven Iowa community colleges; and the Governor's Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math, or STEM, and Career and Technical Education, or CTE, programs.

Unique to the Iowa National Guard, we offer a wide variety of education and career opportunities for students interested in STEM and CTE career fields.

This past summer we hosted an Iowa high school teacher from Denver, Iowa as part of a STEM externship program for six weeks.

He spent time at multiple facilities working in a variety of STEM-related career fields, understanding firsthand how to take an educational STEM standard and apply it to a real-life application.

In addition to the externship, we've hosted students and teachers from Harlan, Ottumwa and Davis County High Schools for our STEM Tactical Advantage program, which was held at Camp Dodge and the Des Moines Airbase.

The depth of hands-on learning and connections made to the Core Curriculum through this real world experience had students engaged in significant ways.

Students were able to see first-hand the impact of understanding the science behind how helicopters work and the math behind how unmanned aerial vehicles operate, as well as other real-world examples.

The types of connections made by students during the STEM Tactical Advantage Day gave them exceptional, unique experiences.

These events allowed students and teachers an opportunity to see how we apply STEM and CTE-related skills every day in our normal duties.

Another great partnership we have in the State is with the Iowa National Guard's Counterdrug program and Midwest Counterdrug Training Center.

Our program, which is federally funded through the Department of Defense, has played an important role in helping reduce the supply and demand of illicit drugs in the State of Iowa since 1989, and provides critical training at no cost to local law enforcement personnel, and prevention and treatment professionals.

In the fight against opioids, this year the Counterdrug program trained 340 law enforcement officers across Iowa how to properly administer Narcan, the antidote for opioid overdoses.

Through the assistance of Counterdrug specialists, more than one pound of fentanyl, which equates to more than 171,000 fatal doses, and more than 12 pounds of heroin, were seized and taken off the street in Iowa.

And in 2017, more than $43 million in drugs and $3 million in cash and assets were seized from drug dealers in Iowa with the assistance of the Counterdrug program.

Especially important, along with our many partners, the Iowa National Guard is doing our part to stimulate the economy of Iowa, while providing exceptional, multi-functional facilities for our force.

In 2017, military and law enforcement personnel executed more than 465,000 training days on Camp Dodge, and tens of thousands of museum visitors, students and civilians also utilized the post, making it the third busiest National Guard training installation in the United States.

Military, law enforcement and civilian visitors to Camp Dodge pumped more than $100 million of discretionary spending back into the central Iowa area last year.

Additional economic benefit comes from our military construction projects here in Iowa.

Through the tireless efforts of our Construction and Facilities Management Office, today every armory in the state has been remodeled, refurbished, or rebuilt within the last 25 years.

At the 185th Air Refueling Wing in Sioux City, this past fall we broke ground on a $12.4 million Composite Support Facility, and in Davenport, we will begin building a $23 million armory this spring utilizing 100% federal funding, replacing our oldest readiness center in the state.

We continue to work with our federal delegation and the Department of Defense to identify and acquire federal funding for the possible future construction of a joint training facility on Camp Dodge, which could consolidate our military schools, law enforcement and first responder training, and other training requirements for state agencies into one facility, maximizing infrastructure, eliminating redundancy, and reducing operational costs.

In addition to organizational readiness, finding and developing great people is absolutely essential to our success.

It's critically important that we broaden the scope of military service to include people from across the fabric of our communities, whether from families who have had few serve, to those families with multiple service members, in order to better balance the commitment across society.

Today, the Iowa National Guard's ranks are filled with high-quality patriots, all volunteers, willing to serve, and I am very proud to serve alongside all of them.

These same Soldiers and Airmen that have chosen to serve are very special, as they represent the less than one percent of the nation that is serving in uniform today to protect our state and nation.

What is particularly concerning is the large percentage of U.S. military members who come from the same military families.

According to the Department of Defense, since our country ended the draft in 1973, more than 80% of our service members come from a family where at least one parent, grandparent, aunt or uncle, sibling or cousin has served, and more than 25% of our troops have at least one parent who has served.

We are effectively creating a class in our society that is carrying the burden for the remainder of our citizens.

Given the increased emphasis on the operational role of the National Guard, recruiting high-quality men and women is a key component of my readiness mission.

With only three out of ten 17 to 24 year-olds eligible today for military service due to various reasons, there's significant concern among civilian and military leaders about the future of our military and the readiness of our force to defend this nation in the years ahead.

In order to maintain a strong democracy and free nation, we must encourage our young people to consider military service as a viable and honorable option.

Skills gained from military service can provide a lifetime of professional and personal benefits.

In Iowa, we've been able to maintain our position in personnel readiness in no small measure because of the Iowa National Guard Education Assistance Program, or NGEAP, which the Iowa Legislature has funded in the past at 100%.

NGEAP is the centerpiece of our recruiting efforts and without it, we couldn't have achieved our personnel readiness goals. But NGEAP is so much more than simply a benefit to our Soldiers and Airmen.

This year, more than 1,200 of our members received up to 100% tuition paid at the State Regents' rate to attend Iowa colleges, universities, and community colleges through this program, keeping our young people here in the state and providing them with a high-quality Iowa education.

And also of critical importance to the future success of our force is the opening of all military positions to women for the first time in our nation's history.

Beginning in 2016, Department of Defense policy was revised to enable eligibility for all military jobs, regardless of gender, as long as the service member could meet all of the qualifications for the position.

This policy change opened up more than 1,700 positions in the Iowa National Guard to women for the first time in our history and has provided new opportunities for female Soldiers and Airmen in every corner of the state.

For the first time in the Iowa National Guard, we now have women serving proudly and capably as combat engineers, cavalry and artillery personnel, among other previously male-only specialties across our organization.

There are tremendous opportunities today for both men and women in the Iowa National Guard.

When you combine our National Guard Education Assistance Program, along with the numerous STEM and CTE opportunities, and our committed diversity outreach programs, the Iowa National Guard offers a diverse foundation of education, service, and flexible career options to young Iowans across the state.

Serving in the Iowa National Guard is truly life-changing and inspiring service.

Our country will undoubtedly continue to face significant domestic, global, and fiscal challenges in the future, but your Iowa National Guard is postured to rise to those challenges, ready to transform from civilians to Guardsmen and women on a moment's notice to defend America, at home and abroad, just as we have done continuously since 1839.

I am so very proud of our Soldiers, Airmen, their families, our rich heritage, and our resolve as we continue our role in the preservation of the ideals upon which our nation and state were founded.

On behalf of our men and women and their families, thank you for this opportunity today to provide you an update on the Iowa National Guard.

Thank you.

Senate Joint Resolution 2006

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa relating to the gubernatorial line of succession.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF IOWA:

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is proposed:

Section 4 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Iowa, as amended by amendment number 1 of the Amendments of 1952 and by amendment number 1 of the Amendments of 1988, is repealed and the following adopted in lieu thereof:

Election by general assembly in case of tie — inability of governor-elect to qualify — succession by lieutenant governor — inauguration of governor and lieutenant governor upon removal of inability of governor-elect to qualify. SEC. 4. The nominees for governor and lieutenant governor jointly having the highest number of votes cast for them shall be declared duly elected. If two or more sets of nominees for governor and lieutenant governor have an equal and the highest number of votes for the offices jointly, the general assembly shall by joint vote proceed, as soon as is possible, to elect one set of nominees for governor and lieutenant governor.

If after the final canvass of votes but before inauguration the governor-elect has since died, does not qualify, or is permanently unable to assume office, the lieutenant governor-elect shall become governor upon inauguration, to the exclusion of any other office, for the residue of the term. In the event of a temporary inability of the governor-elect to assume office, the lieutenant governor-elect shall become governor upon inauguration, until the inability is removed, at which time, the governor-elect and lieutenant governor-elect shall be inaugurated as governor and lieutenant governor.

Section 10 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Iowa is amended to read as follows:

Vacancies. SEC. 10. When any office shall, from any cause, become vacant, and no mode is provided by the constitution and laws for filling such vacancy, the governor shall have power to fill such vacancy, by granting a commission, which shall expire at the end of the next session of the general assembly, or at the next election by the people. The governor shall have the power to fill a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor by appointment.

Section 17 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Iowa is repealed and the following adopted in lieu thereof:

Lieutenant governor to assume the office of governor — vacancy. SEC. 17. If the governor dies, resigns, is removed or impeached prior to acquittal or conviction, or is otherwise unable to serve, the lieutenant governor shall become governor, to the exclusion of any other office. If the preceding governor becomes able to serve, the succeeding governor shall again assume the office of lieutenant governor for the residue of the term, to the exclusion of any other office.

Section 19 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Iowa as amended by amendment number 2 of the Amendments of 1952 and by amendment number 2 of the Amendments of 1988, is repealed and the following adopted in lieu thereof:

Succession to office of governor and lieutenant governor — simultaneous inability to serve — qualification of successor governor to office. SEC. 19. If the governor and lieutenant governor are simultaneously unable to serve, the president of the senate shall become governor, followed by the speaker of the house if the president of the senate is unable or unwilling to serve, each succeeding, to the exclusion of the powers and duties of any other office. If the governor or lieutenant governor so succeeded becomes able to serve, the governor or lieutenant governor shall assume the office to which the governor or lieutenant governor qualified prior to the inability, and any successor governor who has served during the period of inability may assume the office to which the successor governor previously qualified, if the successor governor served as governor for less than one hundred ten days.

Sec. 2. REFERRAL AND PUBLICATION. The foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Iowa is referred to the general assembly to be chosen at the next general election for members of the general assembly, and the secretary of state is directed to cause the proposed amendment to be published for three consecutive months previous to the date of that election as provided by law.

W. CHARLES SMITHSON, Secretary

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER M. SMITH

“First, I want to thank the members of my caucus for sticking together this year and leading the fight for everyday Iowans.

On behalf of my caucus, I want to thank the House Democratic Staff -- Joe, Rachele, Kelsey, Dave, Alison, Bill, Joe, Brian, Jessica, Jake and Dean — for your hard work this session. It’s no secret you are the best staff in the Capitol. A special thanks to our Page, Brady Fisher, who was in charge of the office this year. You did great and we wish you well in your studies at the University of Northern Iowa this fall.

I also want to thank LSA, the clerks, the doormen and all the capitol staff who work hard behind the scenes to keep this place running. We are a demanding group and your hard work does not go unnoticed.

Many years ago, my great uncle purchased a grocery store in Hopkins, Missouri from a previous owner. When he and his family started preparing the store for the grand opening, they found that many of the items they thought were on the shelves were actually empty containers and that the actual goods weren’t there. The goods they thought they had purchased were really just empty boxes.

In the months ahead when Iowans expect to see the promises made by this Legislature impact their own life, they're going to find an empty box.

The working family in Muscatine expecting a tax break will get a higher property tax bill and new sales taxes for online purchases and streaming services instead.

The teacher in Sioux City hoping to give her students more one-on-one time in the classroom will have to take a pay cut.

The soybean farmer in Winneshiek County expecting a bumper crop and profit this year will find a weak market, low prices, and even higher property taxes.

The fisherman from Louisa County expecting cleaner waterways will find zero progress has been made again this year.

The young woman in Bettendorf will still struggle to find reproductive health care and cancer screenings.

The parents in West Des Moines desperately trying to find mental health support for their son will find the state didn't fund any significant expansion of services their child needs to survive.

The small business owner in Marion expecting a new affordable health care plan will find out her application was denied because she had a pre-existing condition.

The mom in Ankeny pregnant with her second child who just received the worst news of her life regarding her unborn child will find out she has no options left because she lives in Iowa.

The 2018 session was indeed historic - for the special interests, but not for everyday Iowans.

Iowans don't ask for much, but WE know they are tired of politics as usual and broken promises from politicians. They just want a decent paying job and the chance to lead a happy, healthy life.

As lawmakers, I believe our job is to listen and work to improve the lives of everyday Iowans. That's why we offered ideas this session to get back to the basics and create new opportunities for all of us to get ahead.

This means putting everyday Iowans first, not the special interests.

This means lowering costs and expanding health care, not reducing access and denying care.

This means keeping college and job training affordable, not raising tuition and putting job training out of reach for thousands of families.

This means investing in public schools to build our skilled workforce, not shortchanging public schools and raising class sizes.

This means protecting and expanding women's health care, not taking away rights and limiting access.

This means revitalizing rural Iowa, not closing schools and ignoring the challenges they face.

This means restoring fiscal discipline and balancing the state budget, by not putting the state budget in the red with billions more in tax giveaways to the wealthy and special interests.

When the session began, I offered our assistance working in a bipartisan manner to address the challenges we face and simply asked that you engage us from the beginning. Very little of that occurred at all this session because you chose to work behind closed doors with special interests instead. The Iowans we represent deserve better.

Over the last two years, we've proven time and time again that House Democrats will never walk away from a fight.

The poet, Robert Frost, has said, "It will not do to say of night because darkness is what brings out your light." The light of 41 members of the Democratic House Caucus shown through the darkness that too many in our state felt the last two years.

There is no substitution for genuine. There is a saying that sometimes good theater takes a few days to sink in. We leave here today and return to our homes. It is my prediction that as we talk to our friends and neighbors, they will realize the positions House Democrats took this session, the battles we fought, and sincerity of our efforts were and are for the best interests of everyday Iowans.

There are no broken promises or empty boxes for Iowans from House Democrats.

I want to say a final thank you to the thousands and thousands of Iowans who came to the State Capitol, sent emails, went to forums, participated in rallies, called their lawmakers, and marched for what they believe in.

We've lost a few battles, but please don't give up. History has proven the struggle for progress has never been easy, but it has also proven it's always the right thing to do.

Keep holding your elected officials accountable and keep fighting for the Iowa we love.

REMARKS BY MAJORITY LEADER HAGENOW

Thank you Madam Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House.

The 87th General Assembly will go down as one of the most consequential in Iowa's history. In November 2016, Iowans entrusted Republicans to lead the House, the Senate and our Governor's office.

The message the voters sent was clear: They wanted smaller, smarter, and conservative government. House Republicans have responded, and the days of status quo government are over.

I'm proud to lead the House Republican caucus. You are a caucus that is committed, courageous, and dedicated to your communities and the people you represent.

We are a caucus that believes in families, their health care needs, K-12 education, growing pocketbooks and opportunities, and keeping them safe.

Too many families are struggling with opioid addiction, mental health issues, and access to affordable health care coverage. House Republicans responded with legislation to combat the opioid epidemic, passed comprehensive mental health reform, and expanded high quality, affordable health care options for the people of Iowa.

House Republicans have clearly shown that K-12 education is a top priority by providing schools with an all-time record investment totaling $3.2 billion next year, giving more flexibility and control to our locally elected school boards and administrators, and providing additional tools and resources to keep our schools safe.

Our caucus believes that when Iowans work hard to earn their money they should be able keep more of it in their pocket. Our actions clearly reflect that belief. This session, we returned $100 million to utility ratepayers and shed more light on Iowans' energy bills. As a capstone to this historic General Assembly, we just passed generational tax reform, something that hadn't been done in more than two decades. Iowa families and small business owners are the winners here and will see significant tax relief as a result of these reforms.

We worked hard to expand our freedoms, keep our communities safe and make our water cleaner. We began the process to enshrine in our constitution the right to keep and bear arms. We are a caucus that stands for life and, each year, we have fought to protect to unborn.

To keep this building open and functioning, many people play an important role, it does not go unnoticed and we appreciate everything you do. I'm biased, but House Republicans are blessed with best staff in the building, and I am grateful for all your hard work and preparation.

Each of us has families and loved ones that support us and make tremendous sacrifices to make our service possible. For me, it is my wife, Amanda, and my children, Owen, Noah and Sophia. Words cannot express my gratitude of their sacrifice and, yes, Daddy is done with session.

Madam Speaker and my Republican colleagues, it's my honor and privilege to serve with you. We are about to adjourn this General Assembly that will long be remembered as one that charted a new course for the State of Iowa. When we walk out of these doors today, we should walk out of here knowing that we have fought the good fight, and finished our work for now. The people we serve should be confident in a brighter future.

God bless each one of you and God bless the great State of Iowa. Thank you Madam Speaker.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER UPMEYER

Ladies and gentlemen of the House of Representatives, thank you for your hard work. You have sacrificed, you have listened, and you have delivered for your communities.

Every general assembly represents an opportunity to do things large and small, or nothing at all. The eighty-seventh General Assembly should be remembered for the collective choice to seize the opportunity to make an impact.

This chamber made a choice to do more than shuffle the pages of the Code of Iowa. You all came together and time after time you chose real change rather than defending the status quo.

Today, Representative Cownie brought us the latest example. For decades, we have acknowledged that our tax code was too complicated and uncompetitive. Too many sessions went by without change, but this year was different.

Like on so many other issues these last two years, it was time for action. That is why today, you can go home to your constituents having achieved historic tax relief and reform.

We decided that families should be put first when it comes to tax relief. Which is why they will receive an average tax cut of over ten percent right away. Once our new tax code is fully implemented, a middle-class family of four can see their taxes reduced by as much as sixty percent.

We cannot underestimate the positive impact these tax savings will have for Iowa families.

I am proud of the clear call to service that I see my colleagues answer each day. As a result, the Iowa House of Representatives still shines as an example of responsive and representative government, where good ideas go through a collaborative process to become law.

Thank you to the House Democrat caucus, and Leader Smith for your contributions this session. Your input and efforts are reflected in much of the good work done here this year.

Thank you to my caucus and the leadership team. We stood together for the opportunity to improve the future of Iowa and you can now go home to your communities, proudly sharing our significant achievements.

Leader Hagenow, you have capably guided us through these historic years and have always positioned us for success. Thank you.

Thank you to our caucus staff, the best staff in the building, you all step up to the challenge so well. The same goes to Carmine and the Chief Clerk's Office. Thank you for your dedication to this institution and for your patience.

I would like to thank the best darn pages around too, Maddie & Jack, it has been a pleasure.

To Colin, Terri, and Tony thank you for working so hard for our office and the entire chamber.

Thank you, Governor Reynolds, for your tireless work to elevate our state and to increase opportunity for the great people of Iowa.

To my loving husband, Doug, and my family, thank you for supporting me. I am looking forward to watching a sunset on the lake with you very soon.

With that in mind, let's go home and spend some time with our family and friends. Thank you.

GOVERNOR'S ITEM VETO MESSAGES

HOUSE FILE 2492

June 1, 2018

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building
LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

House File 2492 is approved this date with the following exceptions in Sections 5 and 17, of which I disapprove:

The State of Iowa is currently taking part in a Public Safety Assessment (PSA) pilot program that provides judges with an objective, data-driven approach that they can use in pretrial proceedings when exercising their discretion. Sections 5 and 17 end that pilot program immediately.

I disapprove of these sections because I believe that we should consider and study ways to create a fairer pretrial system that protects the public. But I also understand that the legislature and other stakeholders have questions about the PSA and whether it considers all of the appropriate factors. For that reason, I am instructing the agencies of the executive branch to continue their participation in this pilot program until December 31, 2018. At that time, the pilot will be concluded, and further use of this assessment suspended, until the data from the pilot can be analyzed. If, after studying the data and research conclusions, it is found that this program will be in the best interests of the public, then new legislation should be considered that authorizes the PSA or similar risk-assessment tools. I want to also emphasize that, even during the short pendency of the pilot project, the PSA does not and should not replace the judge's discretion. The PSA is but one piece of information and the ultimate decision rests with each person sitting on the bench.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor

HOUSE FILE 2502

June 1, 2018

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building
LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby transmit:

House File 2502, an Act relating to state and local finances by making appropriations, providing for legal and regulatory responsibilities, providing for other properly related matters, and providing for effective date, contingent effective date, applicability, and retroactive applicability provisions.

As to Sections 67 and 69 of House File 2502, I am unable to approve these items. Section 67 prescribes that any newly formed Multiple Employer Welfare Arrangement (MEWA) be formed as a 501(c)(9) entity. There are other viable tax structure alternatives, and I believe this requirement is overly prescriptive and would have a limiting effect on any future employer interested in the formation of a MEWA for purposes of providing an additional option for health coverage for interested Iowans.

Section 69 repeals the ability of the Commissioner of the Iowa Insurance Division to adopt emergency rules. It is necessary for the Commissioner to retain this ability in order to ensure for the immediate adoption of rules to administer the provisions of the underlying bill.

For the above reasons, I respectfully disapprove House File 2502, in part only as specified above, in accordance with Article III, Section 16, of the Constitution of the State of Iowa. The remainder of House File 2502 not disapproved as stated herein is approved as of this date.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor

SENATE FILE 2418

June 1, 2018

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building
LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby transmit:

Senate File 2418, an Act relating to appropriations for health and human services and veterans and including other related provisions and appropriations, providing penalties, and including effective date and retroactive and other applicability date provisions.

The above Senate File is hereby approved this date.

I am unable to approve the designated portion of Section 20 of Senate File 2418, inserting a new subsection 22 into 2017 Iowa Acts, Chapter 174, Section 51. This item provides that $195,000 of the funds appropriated by 2017 Iowa Acts, Chapter 174, Section 51 shall be used by the Department of Human Services (DHS) for a request for proposal relating to a partnership between the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics and a durable medical equipment provider. There is nothing in current law that would prevent a durable medical equipment provider. There is nothing in current law that would prevent a durable medical equipment provider from independently responding to a request for proposal and/or providing durable medical equipment products and services in the State of Iowa. The request for proposal process should be applied fairly and competitively to all providers of durable medical equipment and not limited in a way that excludes Iowa's existing providers.

The effect of this specific item veto disapproval of Section 20 of Senate File 2418, inserting a new subsection 22 into 2017 Iowa Acts, Chapter 174, Section 51, shall cause the $195,000 contained in this item to revert back to the General Fund. None of the $195,000 contained in this item shall be retained by DHS, nor shall it be diverted for purposes not legislatively specified.

For the above reasons, I respectfully disapprove Senate File 2418 in part only as specified above, in accordance with Article III, Section 16, of the Constitution of the State of Iowa. The remainder of Senate File 2418 not disapproved of as stated herein is approved as of this date.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds

GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE

SENATE FILE 2316

June 1, 2018

The Honorable Paul Pate
Secretary of State of Iowa
State Capitol Building
LOCAL

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby transmit:

Senate File 2316, an Act relating to transactions by domestic stock insurers, small employer group health insurers, and universal life insurance.

Senate File 2316 sets forth a regulatory process that would allow domestic stock insurance companies domiciled in Iowa to divide into two or more resulting companies. While I am supportive of the underlying bill, I am unable to approve it as amended to include Section 18. Section 18 proposes to allow self-employed persons without employees to qualify for small group health insurance coverage. These changes conflict with federal law.

For the above reasons, I respectfully disapprove of Senate File 2316 in its entirety. It is hereby vetoed in whole.

Sincerely,

Kim Reynolds
Governor

13 2018, is amended by striking the paragraph.

14 Sec. 3. Section 256.7, subsection 32, paragraph c, Code
15 2018, is amended to read as follows:

16 c. ~~Adopt rules that limit the statewide enrollment of~~ 17 ~~pupils in educational instruction and course content that are~~
18 ~~delivered primarily over the internet to not more than eighteen~~

21 ~~in open enrollment for purposes of receiving educational~~
22 ~~instruction and course content that are delivered primarily~~
23 ~~over the internet to no more than one percent of a sending~~ 24 ~~district's enrollment. Such limitations shall not apply if~~ 25 ~~the limitations would prevent siblings from enrolling in the~~ 26 ~~same school district or if a sending district determines that~~
27 ~~the educational needs of a physically or emotionally fragile~~
28 ~~student would be best served by educational instruction and~~
29 ~~course content that are delivered primarily over the internet.~~
30 ~~Students who meet the requirements of section 282.18 may~~ 31 ~~participate in open enrollment under this paragraph "c" for~~

34 (1) The department, in collaboration with the international

 12 instruction and course content for delivery primarily over the 13 internet. A school district providing educational instruction
 14 and course content that are delivered primarily over the 15 internet pursuant to this paragraph “e” shall annually submit
 16 to the department, in the manner prescribed by the department,
 17 data that includes but is not limited to the following:
 18 (a) Student achievement and demographic characteristics.
 19 (b) Retention rates.
 20 (c) The percentage of enrolled students’ active
 21 participation in extracurricular activities.
 22 (d) Academic proficiency levels, consistent with

 25 (e) Academic growth measures, which shall include either of 26 the following:
 27 (i) Entry and exit assessments in, at a minimum, math

 31 (ii) State-required assessments that track year-over-year
 32 improvements in academic proficiency.
 33 (f) Academic mobility. To facilitate the tracking

 12 instruction and course content that are delivered primarily 13 over the internet pursuant to this paragraph “e”, and shall be 14 consistent with evidence-based best practices.
 15 ~~(3) The department shall conduct annually a survey of not~~
 16 ~~less than ten percent of the total number of students enrolled~~
 17 ~~as authorized under this paragraph “e” and section 282.18, to~~ 18 ~~determine whether students are enrolled under this paragraph~~ 19 ~~“e” and section 282.18 to receive educational instruction and~~ 20 ~~course content primarily over the internet or are students who~~

26 1. The general assembly finds and declares the following:

27 ~~a. That prior legislative enactments on the use of~~

8 a. Monitor and verify full-time student enrollment, timely
9 completion of graduation requirements, course credit accrual,

27 under this section if any of the following apply:

7 district or accredited nonpublic school may apply for an annual
8 waiver each year.

9 c. Any specified subject course to which section 256.11,
10 subsection 5, does not apply under paragraph "a" or "b" shall 11 be provided by the initiative if the initiative offers the

 26 districts and accredited nonpublic schools participating in 27 the initiative. Fees collected pursuant to this subsection
 28 are appropriated to the department to be used only for the 29 purpose of administering this section and shall be established
 30 so as not to exceed the budgeted cost of administering this 31 section to the extent not covered by the moneys appropriated
 32 in subsection 9. Providing professional development
 33 necessary to prepare teachers to participate in the initiative
 34 shall be considered a cost of administering this section.
 35 Notwithstanding section 8.33, fees collected by the department

 14 to read as follows:

15 2. Private providers. At the discretion of the school board
 16 or authorities in charge of an accredited nonpublic school,

 21 Courses obtained from private providers shall be taught by

- 1 year multiplied by the state cost per pupil for the previous
 2 year. If the pupil participating in open enrollment is also
 3 an eligible pupil under section 261E.6, the receiving district
 4 shall pay the tuition reimbursement amount to an eligible
 5 postsecondary institution as provided in section 261E.7.
 6 (2) If a pupil participates in cocurricular or
 7 extracurricular activities in accordance with subsection
 8 11A, the district of residence may deduct up to two hundred
 9 dollars per activity, for up to two activities, from the amount
 10 calculated in subparagraph (1). For a cocurricular activity,
 11 one semester shall equal one activity. Extracurricular
 12 activities for which such a resident district may charge up
 13 to two hundred dollars per activity for up to two activities
 14 under this subparagraph include interscholastic athletics,
 15 music, drama, and any other activity with a general fund
 16 expenditure exceeding five thousand dollars annually. A pupil

17 may participate in additional extracurricular activities at the 18 discretion of the resident district. The school district of 19 residence may charge the pupil a fee for participation in such 20 cocurricular or extracurricular activities equivalent to the 21 fee charged to and paid in the same manner by other resident
22 pupils.

23 Sec. 15. Section 282.18, Code 2018, is amended by adding the
24 following new subsection:

25 NEW SUBSECTION. 11A. A pupil participating in open
26 enrollment for purposes of receiving educational instruction
27 and course content primarily over the internet in accordance 28 with section 256.7, subsection 32, may participate in any
29 cocurricular or extracurricular activities offered to children
30 in the pupil's grade or group and sponsored by the district
31 of residence under the same conditions and requirements
32 as the pupils enrolled in the district of residence. The 33 pupil may participate in not more than two cocurricular or 34 extracurricular activities during a school year unless the 35 resident district approves the student's participation in

1 additional activities. The student shall comply with the
2 eligibility, conduct, and other requirements relating to the 3 activity that are established by the district of residence for 4 any student who applies to participate or who is participating
5 in the activity.

7 DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION — BILITERACY SEAL

8 Sec. 16. Section 256.9, Code 2018, is amended by adding the
9 following new subsection:

10 NEW SUBSECTION. 60. Develop and administer a seal of 11 biliteracy program to recognize students graduating from 12 high school who have demonstrated proficiency in two or more
13 world languages, one of which may be American sign language,
14 though one of which must be English. Participation in the 15 program by a school district, attendance center, or accredited
16 nonpublic school shall be voluntary. The department shall work
17 with stakeholders to identify standardized tests that may be 18 utilized to demonstrate proficiency. The department shall 19 produce a seal of biliteracy, which may include but need not 20 be limited to a sticker that may be affixed to a student's 21 high school transcript or a certificate that may be awarded to 22 the student. A participating school district or school shall 23 notify the department of the names of the students who have 24 qualified for the seal and the department shall provide the 25 school district or school with the appropriate number of seals
26 or other authorized endorsement. The department may charge a 27 nominal fee to cover printing and postage charges related to 28 issuance of the biliteracy seal under this subsection.

5 2. The department, the state board, or the director shall 6 not issue guidance inconsistent with any statute, rule, or

1 Amend House File 2118 as follows:

2 1. By striking everything after the enacting clause and
 3 inserting:
 4 <Section 1. Section 321.1, Code 2017, is amended by adding
 5 the following new subsection:
 6 NEW SUBSECTION. 5A. “Automated traffic law enforcement
 7 system” means a device used for the enforcement of laws
 8 regulating vehicular traffic and equipped with one or more
 9 sensors working in conjunction with one of the following:
 10 a. An official traffic-control signal, to produce recorded
 11 images of motor vehicles entering an intersection against a red
 12 signal light.
 13 b. A speed measuring device, to produce recorded images of 14 motor vehicles traveling at a prohibited rate of speed.

15 c. A railroad grade crossing signal light, as described in 16 section 321.342, to produce recorded images of motor vehicles
17 violating the signal light.

18 d. Any official traffic-control device, if failure to comply
19 with the official traffic-control device constitutes a moving
20 violation under this chapter.

21 Sec. 2. NEW SECTION. 321.492C Automated traffic law
22 enforcement systems.

23 1. The department shall not place, operate, maintain,
24 or employ the use of any automated traffic law enforcement
25 system. The department shall not cause to be placed any 26 automated traffic law enforcement system except as provided in 27 this section or in rules adopted by the department under this
28 section.

29 2.a. A local authority, or another entity on a local
30 authority's behalf, shall not operate an automated traffic law
31 enforcement system without approving the use of the system
32 following an established self-certification process. The 33 self-certification process shall include a justification report
34 meeting the requirements of paragraph "b", which shall be 35 made readily available for the public to review, and a public

1 hearing at which the local authority shall provide evidence
2 of a demonstrated safety need for the automated traffic law
3 enforcement system. Notice of the date, time, and place of 4 the hearing shall be published in the manner described in
5 section 362.3. A public hearing may address several locations
6 at which a local authority intends to place an automated
7 traffic law enforcement system. However, a local authority
8 shall adopt an ordinance approving the use of an automated
9 traffic law enforcement system for each location at which the 10 local authority operates a fixed or mobile automated traffic
11 law enforcement system. A local authority may approve the 12 operation of an automated traffic law enforcement system
13 only if the system is located in a documented high-crash or 14 high-risk location at which there is a demonstrated safety
15 need for the system. The local authority shall demonstrate 16 the safety need for the system based on the volume of traffic,
17 the history of motor vehicle accidents, the frequency and type
18 of traffic violations, the risk to peace officers employing 19 traditional traffic enforcement methods, any additional 20 information required in the justification report, and any other
21 safety criteria deemed appropriate by the local authority.
22 These requirements shall apply for each location at which a
23 local authority, or another entity on a local authority's
24 behalf, operates a fixed or mobile automated traffic law
25 enforcement system.

26 b. A justification report shall provide all necessary
27 information and documentation to demonstrate whether an area is 28 a high-crash or high-risk location and shall include but not be

29 limited to documentation regarding all the following:

30 (1) Existing traffic speeds, posted speed limits,
 31 traffic volumes, and intersection or roadway geometry. Such 32 documentation shall provide assurance that existing speed
 33 limits and official traffic-control signal timings are 34 appropriate and shall describe how the limits and timings were 35 established.

1 (2) The applicable motor vehicle accident history, the
 2 primary accident types, accident causes, accident severity, and
 3 the history of any related traffic violations. Only accidents
 4 attributable to violating the speed limit or an official
 5 traffic-control signal shall be included in this report. Such 6 documentation shall compare accident data with data from other
 7 similar locations within the local authority's jurisdiction,
 8 other similar jurisdictions, and larger metropolitan areas.

9 (3) The identification of critical traffic safety issues
 10 related to the data required by subparagraphs (1) and (2),
 11 including a comprehensive list of solutions that may address
 12 the critical traffic safety issues.

13 (4) Solutions or safety countermeasures that the local 14 authority has implemented along with those that the local 15 authority has considered but not implemented. These may 16 include solutions relating to law enforcement, engineering,
 17 public education campaigns, or other safety countermeasures.

18 (5) Discussions held and actions taken by the local
 19 authority with any partnering entities that have resources
 20 which could aid in the reduction of accidents attributable
 21 to violating the speed limit or an official traffic-control
 22 signal.

23 (6) The reason or reasons the local authority believes an
 24 automated traffic law enforcement system is the best solution
 25 to address the critical traffic safety issues.

26 c. A local authority, or another entity on a local
 27 authority's behalf, shall not operate an automated traffic law
 28 enforcement system without posting signage meeting all of the 29 following requirements:

30 (1) For a fixed automated traffic law enforcement system,
 31 permanent signs advising drivers that the system is in place
 32 shall be posted in clear and present view of passing drivers in 33 advance of the location where the system is in use.

34 (2) For a mobile automated traffic law enforcement system,
 35 temporary or permanent signs advising drivers that the system

1 is in place shall be posted in clear and present view of
 2 passing drivers in advance of the location where the system is 3 in use.

4 (3) The signage conforms to the manual on uniform

5 traffic-control devices as adopted by the department.
6 d. A local authority, or another entity on a local 7 authority's behalf, shall not issue a citation resulting from 8 the use of an automated traffic law enforcement system until 9 an active peace officer of the local authority has reviewed
10 the citation and any relevant recorded images produced by the 11 system.
12 e. The amount of the fine or civil penalty imposed by a
13 citation resulting from the use of an automated traffic law
14 enforcement system shall not exceed the amount of the fine for 15 a scheduled violation under section 805.8A for the same or a
16 similar violation of this chapter.
17 f. An automated traffic law enforcement system working
18 in conjunction with a speed measuring device or official
19 traffic-control signal shall comply with the generally accepted
20 procedures for operating the system. An automated traffic law
21 enforcement system shall verify its internal calibrations on a
22 daily basis. If the daily internal calibration is not valid,
23 the system shall not operate until a successful calibration
24 is subsequently conducted. In addition to the daily internal 25 calibration, a monthly calibration shall be conducted by a
26 person trained in the calibration of the system. A person
27 trained in the calibration of a mobile automated traffic law
28 enforcement system shall also conduct a calibration prior to 29 the use of the mobile system after any change in location.
30 A local authority, or another entity on a local authority's
31 behalf, operating an automated traffic law enforcement
32 system shall maintain a monthly log detailing whether the 33 local authority or entity successfully performed the daily
34 and monthly calibrations. The log and documentation of the 35 calibrations shall be admissible in any court proceeding

1 relating to an official traffic-control signal violation
2 pursuant to section 321.257 or a speed limit violation pursuant
3 to section 321.285.
4 g. A local authority shall maintain or compile records
5 relating to the number of traffic violations and number
6 of traffic accidents for all locations at which the local
7 authority, or another entity on a local authority's behalf,
8 operates or intends to operate an automated traffic law
9 enforcement system. Such records shall be maintained or 10 compiled by the local authority for one year prior to the 11 installation of the automated traffic law enforcement system
12 and for each year the automated traffic law enforcement
13 system is in operation. Such records shall be available for 14 examination to the same extent allowed in section 22.2. A
15 local authority with an automated traffic law enforcement
16 system operating within its jurisdiction shall file an annual 17 report with the general assembly on or before December 31 of 18 each year detailing the effectiveness of each automated traffic

19 law enforcement system operating within its jurisdiction. An 20 annual report shall include the justification report described 21 in paragraph “b” and shall also include but not be limited to 22 information relating to increases or decreases in the number of 23 speed limit violations, violations of official traffic-control
24 signals, and traffic accidents.

25 h. Prior to a local authority placing an automated traffic
26 law enforcement system on a primary road, the local authority
27 shall obtain approval from the department in accordance 28 with rules adopted by the department. A local authority
29 shall submit to the department any information requested by 30 the department during the approval process. If the local 31 authority’s use of the system is approved by the department,
32 the local authority shall follow the requirements set forth
33 in rules adopted by the department. The department may 34 modify its rules relating to automated traffic law enforcement
35 systems to the extent necessary to ensure automated traffic

1 law enforcement systems are operated in a safe and equitable
2 manner. This paragraph “h” shall not apply to an automated
3 traffic law enforcement system approved or allowed to operate
4 in accordance with rules adopted by the department and in 5 operation prior to January 1, 2017. A local authority may 6 continue to operate such a system in the same manner as the 7 system was operated prior to January 1, 2017. However, after a
8 local authority discontinues operation of such a system, any 9 new manner of operation or new system operated by the local 10 authority shall comply with this paragraph “h”. The department
11 shall have the authority to annually review all automated
12 traffic law enforcement systems placed on primary roads and 13 shall have the authority to require removal or modification of 14 such systems.

15 i. A local authority shall designate a process by which 16 a person may appeal a citation issued through the use of an
17 automated traffic law enforcement system, which at a minimum
18 shall provide for all of the following:

19 (1) An appeal to an impartial body created by the local 20 authority to review citations issued through the use of 21 automated traffic law enforcement systems.

22 (2) Following a decision from the impartial body that is 23 adverse to the person, an appeal to the district court, sitting 24 in small claims, of the county in which the local authority is 25 located.

26 j.(1) A local authority shall authorize a petition process
27 by which citizens within the local authority may petition for 28 the removal of a fixed automated traffic law enforcement system
29 or the disapproval of a location approved for the use of mobile
30 automated traffic law enforcement systems in accordance with 31 this section. Petitions under this paragraph “j” shall be 32 specific to one fixed system or one location approved for the 33 use of mobile systems.

34 (2) If the local authority is a city, a petition brought 35 under this paragraph "j" is valid if it is signed by a number

1 of eligible electors of the city equal to or greater than ten
2 percent of the number of persons who voted in the last regular
3 city election. The petition shall include the signatures of 4 the petitioners, the places of residence of the petitioners,
5 and the date on which the petitioners signed the petition.

6 (3) If the local authority is a county, a petition brought
7 under this paragraph "j" is valid if it is signed by a number
8 of eligible electors of the county equal to or greater than 9 ten percent of the number of votes cast in the county in the 10 last presidential election. The petition shall include the 11 signatures of the petitioners, the places of residence of the 12 petitioners, and the date on which the petitioners signed the 13 petition.

14 (4) If a petition is valid as provided in this paragraph 15 "j", the city council or county board of supervisors, as 16 applicable, shall vote on whether to repeal the ordinance
17 allowing the operation of the fixed system or approving the 18 location for the use of mobile systems.

19 (5) If a city council or county board of supervisors has 20 voted pursuant to subparagraph (4), a new petition for the same
21 fixed system or the same location approved for use of mobile
22 systems shall not be valid for three years after the date of 23 the vote.

24 k. A local authority that operates an automated traffic
25 law enforcement system in violation of this section shall be 26 precluded from operating any automated traffic law enforcement
27 system for a period of two years. A citizen residing within 28 the jurisdiction of a local authority which violates this 29 section shall be allowed to file suit to enjoin the local 30 authority from operating an automated traffic law enforcement
31 system in accordance with this paragraph "k".

32 3. All moneys collected by a local authority from citations
33 issued as a result of the use of an automated traffic law
34 enforcement system, less the amount necessary for the 35 installation, operation, and maintenance of the automated

1 traffic law enforcement system, shall be deposited in the
2 account or accounts maintained by the local authority for 3 moneys appropriated to the local authority from the secondary
4 road fund or street construction fund of the cities, or shall
5 be deposited in any account and used for the purposes of public
6 safety. This subsection shall not apply to moneys collected

3 manner. This paragraph "h" shall not apply to an automated

 9 "d".

10 (2) "Transportation cost per pupil differential" means an 11 amount equal to a school district's transportation cost per 12 pupil minus the statewide adjusted transportation cost per 13 pupil for the same budget year.

14 d. A school district's transportation cost per pupil
 15 shall be determined by dividing the school district's actual 16 transportation cost for all children transported in all school
 17 buses for a school year pursuant to section 285.1, subsection
 18 12, less the amount received for transporting nonpublic school
 19 pupils under section 285.1, by the district's actual enrollment

20 for the school year, excluding the shared-time enrollment for 21 the school year as defined in section 257.6.

22 3.a. A transportation equity fund is created as a separate 23 and distinct fund in the state treasury under the control of 24 the department of management. Moneys in the fund include

3 fund at the end of a fiscal year, notwithstanding section 8.33,
4 shall remain in the fund and shall be available for expenditure
5 for the purposes of this section in subsequent fiscal years.

6 4. For budget years beginning on or after July 1, 2018, if

9 transportation base funding payment in an amount equal to 10 the school district's enrollment used under subsection 2,
11 paragraph "d", multiplied by the lesser of the statewide
12 average transportation cost per pupil or the school district's 13 transportation cost per pupil for the budget year. If an 14 amount appropriated for a budget year is insufficient to pay
15 all transportation base funding payments, the department of 16 management shall prorate such payment amounts.

17 5.a. The sum of the transportation equity aid payment
18 and the transportation base funding payment paid to a school
19 district for a budget year shall not exceed the school
20 district's actual transportation cost used to calculate 21 the school district's transportation cost per pupil under 22 subsection 2, paragraph "d", for the budget year.

23 b. Transportation equity aid payments and transportation
24 base funding payments shall be paid at the same time and in the

24 preponderance of the evidence that the respondent does not pose
25 a significant danger to the respondent's self or others by 26 possessing, shipping, transporting, or receiving firearms.

27 c. If the court finds after the hearing that the respondent
28 has met the burden of proof, the court shall terminate the 29 extreme risk protective order.

30 2. A family member may, by motion, request an extension
31 of an extreme risk protective order within ninety days of the 32 expiration of the order.

33 a. Upon receipt of a motion to extend an extreme risk

35 earlier than fourteen days from the date of the motion.

1 b. In considering whether to extend the extreme risk
2 protective order under this section, the court shall consider

5 c. If the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence
6 that the requirements for issuance of an extreme risk
7 protective order continue to be met, the court shall extend 8 the order. However, if, after notice, the motion to extend is 9 uncontested and the plaintiff does not seek a modification of 10 the existing order, the order may be extended on the basis of 15 — surrender.

16 1. Upon the issuance of an extreme risk protective order

26 enforcement officer taking possession of any firearms
27 shall issue a receipt identifying all firearms that have 28 been surrendered and provide a copy of the receipt to the 29 respondent. Within seventy-two hours after service of the 30 order the law enforcement officer serving the order shall file
31 the original receipt with the court and shall ensure that the 32 law enforcement agency retains a copy of the receipt.

 6 and authorizing a search of the locations where the firearms
 7 are reasonably believed to be and the seizure of any firearms

 13 firearms, the firearms shall be returned to the lawful owner if 14 the lawful owner agrees to store the firearms in such a manner
 15 that prevents the respondent from having access to the firearms
 16 during the time an extreme risk protective order or emergency
 17 extreme risk protective order is in effect.

18 Sec. .NEW SECTION. 664B.12 Firearm surrender —
 19 hearing.

 19 of division.

20 1. After a dividing insurer approves a plan of division
 21 pursuant to section 521I.7, the dividing insurer shall file the 22 plan of division with the commissioner. Within ten business
 23 days of filing the plan of division with the commissioner, the 24 dividing insurer shall provide notice of the filing to each

31 3. The commissioner may approve a plan of division if the 32 commissioner finds that all of the following apply:

33 a. The interest of the policyholders, creditors, or 34 shareholders of the dividing insurer will be adequately
 35 protected and the plan of division is not unfair or

1 unreasonable to the policyholders of the dividing insurer and
 2 is not contrary to the public interest.

3 b. The financial condition of the resulting insurers will
 4 not jeopardize the financial stability of a dividing insurer
 5 or the resulting insurers or prejudice the interests of the 6 policyholders of such insurers.

7 c. All resulting insurers created by the proposed division
 8 will be qualified and eligible to receive a certificate of 9 authority to transact the business of insurance in this state.

10 d. The proposed division does not violate a provision of 11 chapter 684. In a division in which the dividing insurer
 12 will survive, the commissioner shall apply chapter 684 to the 13 dividing insurer in its capacity as a resulting insurer. In 14 applying the provisions of chapter 684 to a resulting insurer,
 15 the commissioner shall do all of the following:

 20 in exchange for incurring allocated obligations.

21 (4) Treat assets allocated to the resulting insurer as 22 remaining assets.

- 23 e. The proposed division is not being made for the purpose
24 of hindering, delaying, or defrauding any policyholders or 25 other creditors of the dividing insurer.
- 26 f. All resulting insurers will be solvent when the division 27 becomes effective.
- 28 g. The remaining assets of a resulting insurer will not be
29 unreasonably small in relation to the business and transactions
30 such resulting insurer has been engaged in or will engage in 31 after completion of the division.
- 32 4. In determining if the standards set forth in subsection
33 3, paragraphs “c” through “g” are satisfied, the commissioner
34 may consider all proposed assets of the resulting insurer
35 including without limitation reinsurance agreements, parental

- 1 guarantees, support agreements, keepwell agreements, and
2 capital maintenance of contingent capital agreements regardless
3 of whether such qualify as an admitted asset under state law.
- 4 5. All expenses incurred by the commissioner in connection
5 with proceedings under this section including expenses
6 for attorneys, actuaries, accountants, and other experts
7 not otherwise a part of the commissioner’s staff as may be 8 reasonably necessary to assist the commissioner in reviewing 9 a proposed plan of division shall be paid by the dividing
10 insurer filing such plan. A dividing insurer may allocate such 11 expense in a plan of division in the same manner as any other 12 liability.
- 13 6. If the commissioner approves a plan of division the 14 commissioner shall issue an order which shall be accompanied 15 by findings of fact and conclusions of law. The commissioner
16 shall also issue a certificate of authority authorizing the 17 resulting insurers to transact the business of insurance in 18 this state.
- 19 7. The conditions in this section for freeing one or more
20 of the resulting insurers from the liabilities of the dividing 21 insurer and for allocating some or all of the liabilities of 22 the dividing insurer shall be deemed to have been satisfied if 23 the plan of division is approved by the commissioner in a final 24 order.
- 25 Sec. 9. NEW SECTION. 521I.9 Confidentiality.
- 26 All information and documents submitted to, obtained by, or 27 disclosed to the commissioner in connection with a dividing
28 insurer’s plan of division shall be confidential and shall not
29 be available for public inspection until notice of a public
30 hearing is provided pursuant to section 521I.8, subsection
31 1. After issuance of a notice of such hearing, the dividing
32 insurer may submit a written request to the commissioner
33 requesting that confidentiality be maintained regarding 34 all business, financial, and actuarial information. If the 35 commissioner grants the dividing insurer’s request, such

1 confidential information shall not be available for public
2 inspection and shall not be subject to chapter 22. The plan
3 of division and any materials incorporated by reference into 4 or otherwise made a part of such plan of division shall not be
5 confidential and shall be available for public inspection.

6 Sec. 10. NEW SECTION. 521I.10 Certificate of division.

7 1. If the commissioner approves a dividing insurer's plan
8 of division pursuant to section 521I.8, an officer or duly
9 authorized representative of the dividing insurer shall sign a
10 certificate of division that sets forth all of the following:

11 a. The name of the dividing insurer.

12 b. A statement disclosing whether the dividing insurer
13 survived the division. If the dividing insurer survived
14 the division, the certificate of division shall include any

16 or bylaws as approved as part of the plan of division.

17 c. The name of each resulting insurer that is created by

25 g. The resulting insurer's articles of incorporation and

27 articles of incorporation and bylaws of each resulting insurer
28 must comply with the applicable requirements of the laws of 29 this state. The articles of incorporation and bylaws may state
30 the name or address of an incorporator, may be signed, and may 31 include any provision that is not required in a restatement of 32 the articles of incorporation or bylaws.

33 h. A reasonable description of the capital, surplus, other
34 assets and liabilities, including policy liabilities, of the 35 dividing insurer that are to be allocated to each resulting

1 insurer.

2 2. A dividing insurer's certificate of division is 3 effective on the date the dividing insurer files the
4 certificate with the secretary of state and provides a
5 concurrent copy to the commissioner, or on another date
6 as specified in the plan of division, whichever is later.

7 However, the certificate of division shall become effective
8 not later than ninety calendar days after it is filed with the 9 secretary of state. A division shall be effective when the 10 relevant certificate of division is effective.

11 Sec. 11. NEW SECTION. 521I.11 Division effective.

12 1. On the effective date of a division pursuant to section

13 521I.10, the following apply:

15 apply:

16 (1) The dividing insurer shall continue to exist.

17 (2) The articles of incorporation of the dividing insurer
18 shall be amended, if at all, if provided for in the plan of 19 division.

20 (3) The bylaws of the dividing insurer shall be amended, if 21 at all, if provided for in the plan of division.

22 b. If the dividing insurer does not survive, the dividing
23 insurer's separate existence shall cease to exist and any 24 resulting insurer created by the plan of division shall come
25 into existence.

26 c. Each resulting insurer shall hold any capital, surplus,
27 and other assets allocated to such resulting insurer by the 28 plan of division as a successor to the dividing insurer by 29 operation of law, and not by transfer, whether directly or 30 indirectly. The articles of incorporation and bylaws, if any,
31 of each resulting insurer shall be effective when the resulting 32 insurer comes into existence.

33 d.(1) All capital, surplus, and other assets of the 34 dividing insurer that are allocated by the plan of division
35 shall vest in the applicable resulting insurer as provided in

1 the plan of division or shall remain vested in the dividing
2 insurer as provided in the plan of division.

3 (2) All capital, surplus, and other assets of the dividing
4 insurer that are not allocated by the plan of division shall
5 remain vested in the dividing insurer if the dividing insurer
6 survives the division and shall be allocated to and vest pro
7 rata in the resulting insurers individually if the dividing
8 insurer does not survive the division.

9 (3) All capital, surplus, and other assets of the dividing
10 insurer otherwise vest as provided in this section without 11 transfer, reversion, or impairment.

12 e. A resulting insurer to which a cause of action is 13 allocated may be substituted or added in any pending action or 14 proceeding to which the dividing insurer is a party when the 15 division becomes effective.

16 f. All liabilities of a dividing insurer are allocated
17 between or among any resulting insurers as provided in section
18 521I.10 and each resulting insurer to which liabilities are 19 allocated is liable only for those liabilities, including 20 policy liabilities, allocated as a successor to the dividing
21 insurer by operation of law.

22 g. Any shares in the dividing insurer that are to be
23 converted or canceled in the division are converted or canceled
24 and the shareholders of those shares are entitled only to 25 the rights provided to such shareholders under the plan of 26 division and any appraisal rights that such shareholders may 27 have pursuant to section 521I.13.

28 2. Except as provided in the dividing insurer's articles
29 of incorporation or bylaws, the division does not give rise
30 to any rights that a shareholder, director of a domestic 31 stock insurer, or third party would have upon a dissolution,
32 liquidation, or winding up of the dividing insurer.

33 3. The allocation to a resulting insurer of capital,
34 surplus, or other asset that is collateral covered by an 35 effective financing statement shall not be effective until a

1 new effective financing statement naming the resulting insurer
2 as a debtor is effective under the uniform commercial code.

3 4. Unless otherwise provided in the plan of division,
4 the shares in and any securities of each resulting insurer
5 shall be distributed to the dividing insurer if it survives
6 the division, or pro rata to the shareholders of the dividing
7 insurer that do not assert any appraisal rights pursuant to 8 section 521I.13.

9 Sec. 12. NEW SECTION. 521I.12 Resulting insurers liability
10 for allocated assets, debts, and liabilities.

11 1. Except as expressly provided in this section, when a 12 division becomes effective, by operation of law all of the 13 following apply:

14 a. A resulting insurer is individually liable for the 15 liabilities, including policy liabilities, that the resulting 16 insurer issues, undertakes, or incurs in its own name after the 17 division.

18 b. A resulting insurer is individually liable for the 19 liabilities, including policy liabilities, of the dividing
20 insurer that are allocated to or remain the liability of the 21 resulting insurer to the extent specified in the plan of 22 division.

23 c. The dividing insurer remains responsible for the 24 liabilities, including policy liabilities, of the dividing
25 insurer that are not allocated by the plan of division if the 26 dividing insurer survives the division.

27 d. A resulting insurer is liable pro rata individually for 28 the liabilities, including policy liabilities, of the dividing
29 insurer that are not allocated by the plan of division if the 30 dividing insurer does not survive the division.

31 2. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this section,
32 when a division becomes effective a resulting insurer is not 33 responsible for and shall not have liability for any of the 34 following:

35 a. Any liabilities, including policy liabilities, that

PAGE 12

1 another resulting insurer issues, undertakes, or incurs in such
2 resulting insurer's own name after the division.

3 b. Any liabilities, including policy liabilities, of the 4 dividing insurer that are allocated to or remain the liability
5 of another resulting insurer under the plan of division.

7 secured or unsecured, or a provision of any contract other than 8 an insurance policy, annuity, or reinsurance agreement that was 9 issued, incurred, or executed by the dividing insurer before
10 the effective date of this Act, requires the consent of the 11 obligee to a merger of the dividing insurer, or treats such a
12 merger as a default, such provision shall apply to a division
13 of the dividing insurer as if such division were a merger.
14 4. If a division breaches a contractual obligation of 15 the dividing insurer, all resulting insurers are jointly 16 and severally liable for the breach. The validity and 17 effectiveness of the division shall not be affected by the 18 breach.
19 5. A direct or indirect allocation of capital, surplus,
20 assets, or liabilities, including policy liabilities, shall 21 occur automatically, by operation of law, and shall not be 22 treated as a distribution or transfer for any purpose with 23 respect to either the dividing insurer or any resulting
24 insurer.
25 6. Liens, security interests, and other charges on the 26 capital, surplus, or other assets of the dividing insurer
27 shall not be impaired by the division, notwithstanding any 28 otherwise enforceable allocation of liabilities, including
29 policy liabilities, of the dividing insurer.
30 7. If the dividing insurer is bound by a security agreement
31 governed by chapter 554 or article 9 of the uniform commercial
32 code as enacted in any other jurisdiction, and the security
33 agreement provides that the security interest attaches to 34 after-acquired collateral, a resulting insurer shall be bound
35 by the security agreement.

1 8. Unless provided in the plan of division and specifically
2 approved by the commissioner, an allocation of a policy or
3 other liability is prohibited from doing any of the following:
4 a. Affecting the rights that a policyholder or creditor
5 has under any other law with respect to such policy or other
6 liability, except that such rights shall be available only
7 against a resulting insurer responsible for the policy or 8 liability under this section.
9 b. Releasing or reducing the obligation of a reinsurer,
10 surety, or guarantor of the policy or liability.
11 9. A resulting insurer shall only be liable for the 12 liabilities allocated to the resulting insurer in accordance 13 with the plan of division and this section and shall not be
14 liable for any other liabilities under the common law doctrine
15 of successor liability or any other theory of liability
16 applicable to transferees or assignees of assets.

17 Sec. 13. NEW SECTION. 521I.13 Shareholder appraisal rights.

18 If a dividing insurer does not survive a division, an 19 objecting shareholder of the dividing insurer is entitled to 20 appraisal rights and to obtain payment of the fair value of 21 such shareholder's shares in the same manner and to the extent
22 provided for a corporation as a party to a merger pursuant to
23 section 490.1302.
